SECURITY BANK TO BUILD FIRST SIX STORY BUILDING HERE

124 GRADUATE FROM THE GRAMMAR SCHOOLS OF THE CITY BEFORE BIG AUDIENCE

Reynold Blight, Orator, Calls Attention to Crowded Condition of the Class Rooms and Congratulates Pupils on the New High Plant

When one looked at the program for the graduation exercises of intermediate school students at Glendale High Friday night and realized that there were 105 of them from the Wilson Avenue temple of education and 19 from the Glendale Avenue school, or 124 altogether, and in connection with that knowledge appreciated the desire each graduate for the participation of Pa, Ma and the baby in the event as well as his chums, it was easy to understand why all the chairs were taken long before 8 p. m. and why considerable groups were standing about in the hall.

The class was an unusually fine looking bunch of boys and girls, the latter in middy suits and dark scarfs, and when they entered the hall in double file and divided into two streams that marched down the inner aisles, Superintendent Richardson D. White and Dr. P. O. Lucas, representing the Board of Education, in seats of honor upon the platform, were justified in the pride they betrayed in the spectacle. The marching was done to the excellent music of the combined school orchestras of some 20 pieces, and musicians and marchers were properly applauded.

Other musical features were the Kipping-Brown Recessional sung by the class accompanied by the orchestra, and songs by the combined girls' glee-club of the schools, directed by Miss Elsa Brennaman, supervisor of music. There were about forty singers and especially charming were their "Swing numbers," "Pale Moon" (Logan) and "Water Lilies" (Lindner). Their voices were fresh and sweet and their clear enunciation which made every word absolutely distinct was remarkable.

Other chorus numbers were "What the Nightingale Sang" (Dobson) and "Tulips" (Kroeger). Superintendent White announced the numbers and introduced Dr. Lucas, who presented the diplomas after a little speech in which he expressed his pleasure in the honor he was enjoying "at the expense of the other members of the board." He thanked parents, taxpayers, and patrons of the schools for hearty cooperation with the board in giving children in the schools educational advantages, admitting it could be done only with their cooperation. To the class he said: "We feel proud of you and think you have done something worth while. It is the desire of you of your teachers and superintendent that you should not be satisfied with what you have, but go forward until you have reached the fullest measure of education possible for you to secure. We feel sure you are in safe hands when we turn you over to Mr. Moyse and his staff of teachers, and we wish you great success and much happiness."

The orator of the evening, Reynold Blight, made a very excellent talk of which the children thoroughly approved as manifested by their spontaneous applause or laughter. He began by likening the public schools to a factory and the graduates to its finished product. Said he:

"We do not manufacture autos and furniture and books there, we manufacture citizenship, men and women. This touches our pocket-books and we do not like to talk about it but we taxpayers must be prepared more and more, to pay taxes for the support and maintenance of the public schools. See how crowded you are tonight and the school rooms are crowded every day. This factory of citizenship, of manhood and womanhood, is not at its highest efficiency because we, the taxpayers, are crowding them in the plant, high school, intermediate and grammar schools. It is fine to know you are going

DOG ORDINANCE DEFERRED BY COUNCIL

Mayor Announces It Will Not Be Considered Monday Night

It was announced by Mayor Robinson that the dog ordinance will not be taken up by Monday night at the meeting of the city council.

Mayor Robinson said that when the matter came before the council the public would be given notice in advance so that a full hearing should be had. Dog owners would be invited to attend the meeting.

STRUCTURE WHICH WILL MARK THE CORNER OF BRAND AND BROADWAY

NEW GLENDALE BRANCH OF THE SECURITY TRUST AND SAVINGS COMPANY OF LOS ANGELES

GLENDALE IN BIG CITY CLASS WITH $500,000 BANK BUILDING COMING

Detailed Drawings of the New Skyline Structure Are Being Made Preparatory to Letting of the Contracts

Security Trust and Savings bank will build immediately a six-story class A steel, concrete and terra cotta building on its corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway, until recently the site of the Pacific Electric station.

Albert F. Priest, Glendale citizen, is the architect whose plans for the building have been accepted. Mr. Priest is now preparing the detail drawings and contracts will be let as soon as the plans are ready.

A twenty-foot one-story extension of the building at the north end, facing upon Brand boulevard, will provide elegantly appointed ticket office and waiting room for the Pacific Electric railway.

The Glendale Security building will face 39 feet on Brand boulevard and 36 feet on Broadway. The exterior will be in a mottled terra cotta, the general design being Italian renaissance. Except for hallway and elevator lobby, the Glendale branch will occupy practically all of the main floor of the building, which will have a high ceiling, and a mezzanine or balcony floor, to be used as working space. The main floor will contain nine double teller booths, a double booth escrow department, open and private officers' quarters, a directors' room. The bank vaults, together with a very completely appointed safe deposit department, will be in the basement. There will be also ladies' and gentlemen's lavatories and rest rooms for the convenience of the public, and locker rooms and lavatories for the bank employees.

The five upper stories will be served by two passenger elevators. They will contain 114 offices. The corridors will be floored with marble wainscoting, and the entire upper part of the building will be finished in hardwood. There will be a central heating plant for the building, with a special ventilating plant for the banking rooms.

"This beautiful modern building will express the confidence of the Security bank in Glendale more than any form of words," said R. F. Kitterman, vice president and manager of the Glendale branch. The building alone will cost close to $400,000, making the total investment on this corner about $500,000.

"To a certain extent, Glendale has the Pacific Electric railway to thank for having this building, which will be an ornament to the city. We feel that the new tunnel soon to be built from the Hill street station will be a great incentive to the growth of this city. There was no immediate necessity for the Pacific Electric's selling their site, but its officers felt that they should not, in justice to Glendale, continue to occupy the best corner with an old and out-of-date building. Our new banking rooms will be beautiful, as well as commodious. Glendale will be provided with a bank which would not be out of place in a city of 100,000 people, and the greater room will enable us to give still more complete banking facilities in every way that a great departmental bank can serve its patrons."

FESTIVAL WEEK ENDS AT THE HIGH

Closing Banquet Is Held at the Cafeteria Rooms

OFFICERS TOASTED

Stanley Johns Takes Over the Presidency of Cabinet With Its Staff

The closing school banquet of a festive week was held Friday night in the cafeteria of Glendale High, when retiring officers of the student body cabinet toasted their successors and turned over to them the responsibilities of their respective positions.

The long table at which the guests were seated was prettily decorated in the school colors, black and red, and was centered with red carnations. The dinner was one to be remembered and was prepared in great part and served by advanced pupils in the domestic science department, under direction of Miss Ellen Hanson.

The officers who so cheerfully surrendered their duties were: Everet Smith, who acted as toastmaster, and who toasted the newly elected president, Stanley Johns; Eloise Truitt, who toasted Arden Gingery, secretary of assemblies; Anna Merriken, who toasted Charlotte Winsel; Percy Jewell, who toasted Anna Fuchscher, secretary of finance; Harry Bennett toasted

MUSIC INSTITUTE HOLDS LARGEST MEETING

The largest attended meeting of the Glendale Community Service volunteer song leaders' music institute was held in the music room of the high school last night with Alexander Stewart as leader, over 25 being present. A review of the previous lessons and also further instruction in leading in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" occupied the greater part of last night's session. In the absence of the regular accompanist, Frances Kulp substituted at the piano. A. Eastman, president of the Glendale Boy Scouts, was a very interested visitor. Mrs. Alexander Stewart of Oakland was also a visitor.

HIGH LOSES AT PASADENA

Boys of the heavyweight basketball team of Glendale High who journeyed to South Pasadena Friday for a league game with the high school of that city, failed to bring back the honors of the day, the game being won by the host team. It was the last basketball league game of the season.

THE WEATHER
Southern California: Tonight and Sunday, fair; heavy frost in early morning in interior. Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair and cool tonight and Sunday; light frost in exposed places tonight.

WIDEN GLENDALE BOULEVARD BRIDGE

Practically all of the civic and improvement organizations from Hollywood to the sea have banded themselves together, under the name of Santa Monica Boulevard Board of Trade, to put through the project of running a boulevard from the west end of the bridge that crosses the Los Angeles river at Glendale boulevard to Santa Monica boulevard, and other improvements.

This road, if put through, would be of great value to the city of Glendale, as it would establish another outlet and inlet from this city to the sea. It would also be of untold value to the people living in Hollywood and the beaches, as it would provide them with another road into the western side of the San Fernando valley. Also, it would add another link to the already congested highway system of Southern California.

This matter has been endorsed by the chamber of commerce of this city, and this is the organization that should do everything in its moral power to assist in the establishment of this road.

But those who are working behind this proposition have overlooked one thing, upon which the value of this road hinges, to a great extent.

The bridge over the Los Angeles river at Glendale boulevard is the "neck of the bottle." This "neck" can accommodate only so many cars. On holidays and Sundays this bridge is right now taxed to its capacity, and this with practically only one road emptying into it.

If Hyperion boulevard is built and Riverside drive is put through by Los Angeles, the jam that will result at the bridge will be terrible. In fact, the bridge will not be able to accommodate the machines, and as a result many accidents will doubtless result.

The Glendale Press believes that along with the cutting of Hyperion boulevard should come the widening of the bridge over the Los Angeles river. Should this be done, the traffic from the south would be turned directly on the east side of Glendale boulevard, north of the river, as it should be, instead of on the west side of the Pacific Electric tracks, as it is at this time. ANNUAL MEETING OF C. OF C. SET FOR TUESDAY

Plans for Exposition to Be Considered at the Gathering

The annual meeting and dinner of the chamber of commerce, when the reports of retired officers of 1922 will be submitted and accepted by the officers of 1923, will be held next Tuesday evening in the banquet hall of the chamber.

It is probable that plans for the coming year will be announced and among other projects the Glendale Industrial Exposition for which the chamber expects to secure the strong support of the Credit Men's association. The date has been set for May 25 to June 3. It is believed by chamber officials that such an exposition would serve to introduce to the public many interesting productive enterprises which have recently been undertaken in this city, and that it would also advertise Glendale abroad.

GRAND VIEW OPENING

The opening meeting of the new Grand View Community Sunday school, which has just been organized in the northwest section of the city, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. M. B. Buckman, 1141 Winchester avenue, near Glenwood road. There will be special music. All are invited to attend. A location has been decided on which it is expected that a Sunday school building will be erected soon, according to Mrs. Buckman.

PROGRESS IS REPORTED ON BEACH ROAD

Santa Monica Blvd. Board of Trade Formed for Boulevard Plan

ASKS GLENDALE JOIN

New Organization Includes Civic Forces of Many Towns

The machinery for the opening of Hyperion boulevard from the west side of the Los Angeles river bridge on Glendale boulevard to Santa Monica boulevard is slowly working.

The following letter concerning this movement was received yesterday by the Glendale chamber of commerce:

"We understand that your chamber of commerce, as representing the people of Glendale is vitally interested in the new boulevard to Glendale by way of Hyperion avenue and that you have officially endorsed the same in a communication to the Los Angeles traffic commission.

"We have the pleasure to inform you that a body has been formed, which is named the Santa Monica Board of Trade, for the purpose of effecting the immediate construction of the new boulevard among other projects which are intended to make Santa Monica boulevard from Glendale to the sea, the finest highway in California. We feel that the interests of Glendale are of first importance in this route and we would appreciate a delegation from your chamber of commerce as members of this board of directors. Herewith please find a copy of the by-laws as approved at our last meeting.

"This association is comprised of the following civic organizations, being all of the civic organizations on Santa Monica boulevard from Santa Monica to Sanborn Junction:

"Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce, Beverly Chamber of Commerce, Sherman Chamber of Commerce, Greater West Hollywood Improvement Association, Highland-Santa Monica Civic Association, Santa Monica-Vine Business Club, South Hollywood Improvement Association, East Hollywood Improvement Association.

"Yours very truly,

"Santa Monica Boulevard Board of Trade, by H. A. Tolle, secretary."

HIGH GROUND BREAKING TO BE MARKED

Beautiful Ceremonial to Be Held on Monday Afternoon at 3:30

Plans thus far developed promise a beautiful ceremonial in connection with the ground breaking exercises for the new high school on the campus at Broadway and Verdugo road which have been set for Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Mr. Mitty of the North Pacific Construction Company, the contractors, has undertaken to provide a platform for speakers on which Thomas W. White, president of the board of trustees will preside.

The most picturesque feature of the event will be a procession of high school pupils to music furnished by the school band under the leadership of Mr. White. The line of march will outline the main building and at regular intervals a student will drop out by the way to stand as a line sentry with pompons in the school colors, red and black, held aloft like a torch. When the procession ends the complete outline of the building will be shown.

There will be other numbers by the school and songs by the glee clubs.

County Superintendent Mark Keppel will be present to make an address and will probably be accompanied by a member of the State Board of Education.

In the ground breaking ceremonies Architects Austin, Ashley and Lindsay, and members of the high school board of trustees, Daniel Campbell, secretary; H. W. Yarlack, Dr. H. V. Brown, and Mrs. Blanch Gardner, and the heads of departments will dedicate the plant to educational purposes, and teachers and presidents of classes will likewise participate.

As the pompons will be emblematic and colorful features, students are urged to bring them to the school Monday that they may be in readiness for use.

INSPECT ALL YEAR SCOUT CAMP

Business men of Glendale Visit Haynes Canyon

A special trip of inspection was made Friday afternoon to the proposed all year round Boy Scout camp in Haynes canyon by a group of Glendale business men. They left the city hall at 2:30 and went in automobiles to the entrance of Haynes canyon which is located about one and one-half miles north of Tujunga. At this point they parked their cars and hiked up the excellent trail to the camp. At they got into the canyon the ground was found covered with snow. At the camp they were greeted with considerable enthusiasm by several of the Scouts and the scoutmaster of the Tujunga troop, who had prepared a big mug of hot chocolate for them. In the camp everybody engaged in a real old-fashioned snow ball fight. After a short rest the men played several Boy Scout games and had lots of fun being real "kids" once more. Everybody was delighted with the campsite and declared it most ideal for Scouting purposes. Those in the party were A. R. Eastman, president of the Verdugo Hills district council, Boy Scouts of America; George H. Bentley, Col. James W. Evering, Francis J. W. Henry, Wm. Hunter, George B. Karr, Geo. U. Moyle, Dr. Warren Z. Newton, W. C. Waring, D. W. Pollard and Scout Executive Harold Benner.

REGIONAL MEETING PLANNED FOR THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

To Be Held Feb. 9, It Is Decided at Meeting
Held Yesterday

Plans for a regional conference to be held in Glendale on Friday, February 9, at the Central Christian church, was the chief matter of business considered at the meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. E. Myers, 1316 South Central avenue, with Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, president, in charge. This conference will include delegates from San Fernando, Burbank, Tujunga, Eagle Rock, South Pasadena and Glendale. Mrs. Hattie C. Young, state secretary, was present and gave instructions and directions for the regional conference. Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, state president, will give her address on "Around the World in Sixty Minutes," illustrated with women in costume representing the various nations.

Committee chairmen appointed yesterday to arrange for the conference included Mrs. R. W. Mottern, general chairman; Mrs. C. W. Bacon, chairman courtesy committee with Christian church members; Mrs. Annie Sipple, chairman of advertising; Mrs. Dora King, chairman of luncheon committee; Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, program.

A very interesting address on "Conditions in Russia" was given by Baroness Otilly De Ropp. Four new members were taken into the local chapter of W. C. T. U. yesterday, making a total of fourteen new members for the last two meetings. These names are being sent to Washington, it being the aim to send in the names of 1,000,000 members throughout the nation to counteract the influence of the liquor forces. At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served.

Jenkins, who had gone to a general store to make a few purchases, happened to notice a large gold coin lying on the floor.

Quivering with excitement and glancing cautiously around to see that no one was watching him, he dropped quite accidentally, of course—one of his gloves on top of the coin.

Then, bending, he proceeded to pick up his glove. But the coin did not accompany it, it remained where it was—upon the floor.

He made the second attempt to get hold of it, but with the same result.

As he was contemplating the wisdom of a third endeavor a clerk approached him, and said:

"Good-day, sir! May I be allowed to show you a bottle of our famous liquid glue. I believe that you are aware of its sticking powers."

But Jenkins had fled.

Thousands of young women are studying law in this country at the present time. They probably expect to become mothers-in-law some day.

LEGIONNAIRES HEAR OF THE KIWANIS

Mr. Barr, governor of the Allied Kiwanis of the Pacific Northwest, gave a talk on "Americanization Work," at the regular meeting of the local post of the American Legion, held last night at the Legion hall, 610 East Broadway, with Chalmers Day presiding. Plans are under way for a convention program. The next national convention will be held at San Francisco in October and it is planned to have a special train to go from Glendale. It is the desire of the officers of the local organization to put Glendale in the running at the convention and they are urging the members of the post to take their vacation at the time of the convention so that the local post might be well represented.

WHITE SHRINERS HOLD JOLLY EVENING

A very jolly evening was enjoyed at the Valentine and card party given Friday night by Omar No. 9, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, at the Glendale Masonic temple. A short business session was held early in the evening with Mrs. Orma V. Naudain, worthy high priestess, in charge. Later there were fourteen tables of "500." Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Frank Booth, Mrs. Bacon, Miss Katherine Delgado, Mr. Richardson of Eagle Rock, Wm. McMillan and Mr. Whitaker.

A postoffice had been arranged on the platform and from this Mrs. George W. Pierce, as postmistress, distributed valentines to everyone. She and the members of her committee were dressed in valentine costumes and valentine decorations were used throughout the hall. Mrs. Pierce was assisted by Mrs. Alvah Leland, Mrs. Naudain, Mrs. Maude Evans, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Frank Chambers, Mrs. B. F. Bourne, Dr. Jessie Russell, Mrs. King. At the close of the evening Wm. McMillan and Mrs. Libbie Cut- refreshments were served.

HOME FOLKS TO SEEK SUBSCRIBERS FOR HOME PAPER

The practice of employing out of town solicitors for subscriptions, while it has been very successful, will be discontinued by the Glendale Daily Press.

One of the reasons, perhaps the strongest, is that it is so very easy to obtain subscriptions for the Glendale Daily Press, that the Press would prefer the commission paid should go to residents of the city. They are home town folks, know the Press and its policy of public service.

So, beginning Monday, the solicitor who may call upon you, not perhaps knowing you are already a subscriber, will be a fellow citizen. Anything you may wish to tell him—news, suggestion for improvement, criticism, will come to us, and it will be between us all. We ask that you aid them in securing new readers as your part in building up a powerful newspaper for your own service.

Those who would like to undertake this work and earn the substantial commissions paid, will find it interesting, on this home town basis. They should apply to Mr. Lord, at the Glendale Daily Press, between 3 and 4 o'clock, on Monday.

NON-RESIDENTS ARE REGISTERING IN GLENDAL

Many people are taking advantage of the offer of the Glendale Building and Loan association, 212 1-2 West Broadway, to register non-residents and others who desire to find friends from their home state. Already several hundred have signed the register kept by President W. B. Howard of the association, and hardly a day passes that new faces do not appear and enroll.

An incident which shows that the register serves as a valuable help came to light one day last week when two friends from Tennessee met and registered. Neither knew the other one was anywhere in California, and the meeting was indeed a surprise.

If some people did nothing but mind their own business they would soon become narrow-minded.

HARRY RIMMER TO BE HONORED BY THE KELLEYS

Reception Given Him With Local Y. M. C. A. Leaders Tonight

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Kelley will entertain this evening at dinner at their home, 416 East Lorraine street, Glendale, local Y. M. C. A. leaders. Harry Rimmer will be the guest of honor and after dinner speaker.

At the regular evening service, conducted at the Christian church today night, his demonstration of the safe handling of a high explosive proved quite thrilling and tantalizing in the suspense in which he held the audience while exhibiting the capsule in which the "explosive" was contained. In this connection he explained some of the work of the coast artillery in handling powders in the magazines produce explosives of higher power, and of the care exercised in searching the men detailed for work to see that no metal was concealed about their persons, nor matches, and that they entered a magazine shoe in rubber.

The capsule, he explained, represented minor power, properly applied, and the care exercised in searching the men detailed for work to see that no metal was concealed about their persons, nor matches, and that they entered a magazine shoe in rubber.

He explained, however, that the capsule, properly applied, and the care exercised in searching the men detailed for work to see that no metal was concealed about their persons, nor matches, and that they entered a magazine shoe in rubber.

CHANTICLEER INN TO REOPEN ON LOS FELIZ ROAD

Sunday marks the formal opening of the enlarged Montgomery's Chanticleer Inn, 2980 Los Feliz road, one of California's most picturesque highway eating places.

Two new dining rooms, more than doubling the original capacity of the inn, have been added, together with a la carte dining room for light lunches.

The rapid growth of the Chanticleer Inn has more than kept pace with the development of the district in which it is located.

In selecting Los Feliz road for the new dining room, Montgomery's Chanticleer Inn, 2980 Los Feliz road, one of California's most picturesque highway eating places.

Drama Section Meets at Bentley Home

Mrs. J. Roger Bentley of 715 North Central avenue, assisted by Mrs. Wm. F. Nash, Sr., was hostess Friday afternoon to the members of the drama section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club. Owing to the illness of Mrs. E. C. Chase, curator, the business session was in charge of Mrs. Max Green, with Mrs. A. P. Findlay acting as secretary.

The reading of the last part of Moliere's comedy, "Tartuffe," was completed at this meeting by the various members, preceding which Mrs. Green gave a synopsis of the previous acts. A comparison of the lives and works of Shakespeare and Moliere was made by Mrs. Green, who stated that Moliere was to France what Shakespeare was to England.

A rehearsal for the play, "Women of History," to be presented by the drama and music sections for the opening program of the new club house will be held next Monday. It was moved that the section send flowers to Mrs. Chase.

At roll call the following members responded: Mrs. Colin Cable, Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, Mrs. Max Green, Mrs. A. P. Findlay, Mrs. W. Halstead, Mrs. C. J. Newcomb, Mrs. Wm. F. Nash, Sr., Mrs. Charles Parker, Mrs. Charles Temple, Mrs. H. C. Vandewater, Mrs. A. D. Pearce, Mrs. A. M. Hunt, Mrs. Goss and the hostess. Delicious refreshments of sandwiches, home-made doughnuts and coffee were served by the hostess. Decorations of marigolds were used throughout the spacious rooms.

RAIN DAMAGES FURNITURE IN BESTLANDS

Although the recent rains proved to be a boon to many ranchers, etc., throughout Southern California, the precipitation on Monday and Tuesday did damage amounting to $2,000 to the stock of the Bestland's Furniture Store at 625 South Brand boulevard, according to the owner. He states that owing to a faulty roof in a light court, during the storm there was from four to five inches of rain covered the floor of the store, which resulted in the big loss, most of the damage being done to the light painted furniture. Mr. Bestland is conducting a flood sale for the disposal of a large part of his stock. Some special bargains will be found in his advertisement which appears in this issue.

Friends of Mrs. Katherine Starrett of Glendale will be pleased to know that following her severe operation at the Anaheim Hospital she is now much improved and able to return home.

MRS. PENDROY TO NEW LUTHERAN MAKE ANNUAL TRIP EAST MINISTER HAS ARRIVED

Mrs. Earl Pendroy is leaving the last of the week for New York City for her annual spring buying. She is anxious to be on the ground for an early selection of Easter modes and of graduation dresses.

The selection of commencement frocks will consume considerable time as she is determined, she says, to give the Glendale girls extra values for the amount to which students are limited.

She also plans to attend the International Silk Exhibition to be held in Grand Central Palace and to take in the exhibit of ready-to-wear garments which will be made during the convention, likewise the spring style show in millinery which will probably be held at the same place.

Last year at this time the Pendroy Store was not in existence. Its stock, when it was established nine months ago, was largely experimental because Mr. and Mrs. Pendroy were newcomers and not yet acquainted with Glendale and its needs. Now she is prepared to purchase with a good working knowledge of the tastes and needs of Glendale women and is therefore for the better equipped for the task in hand. She is planning to give special attention to the selection of Easter gowns and hats that Glendale may find herself in the front ranks of fashion and hold up her head with the rest of the up-to-date world. She goes with the assurance that Glendale will appreciate and loyally support enterprise along this line.

Mrs. Pendroy is broadcasting the warning that women must expect the skirts of the gowns with which she will return to be considerably longer than they have been wearing. The present standard for afternoon gowns, she says, is 4 to 6 inches from the ground. Street skirts are 6 to 8 inches from the floor, and sport suits 8 to 10 inches.

CIVIL WAR VET RECOVERS SIGHT

Mr. J. P. Richardson of 777 Gaviota street, Long Beach, a Civil war veteran, has returned from a hospital with restored vision after a successful operation for the removal of cataract. Dr. J. H. McKellar was the surgeon.

Mrs. Laura Farrar of San Diego, who has been the guest of Mrs. Flora Pixley of W. Lomita avenue, this city, is returning to the southern city today. The two ladies became friends years ago when both were residents of Colorado. Both are ardent Women's Relief Corps workers, Mrs. Pixley being the president of the N. P. Bank's Corps. Mrs. Pixley was called to jury service in the Superior Court January 8 and does not know when she will be released.

AT THE THEATRES

SHIRLEY MASON AT THE GLENDALE TODAY ONLY

What promises to be one of the best pictures of the season will be seen when "The New Teacher," a William Fox production, starring Shirley Mason, opens at the Glendale Theatre tonight. Miss Mason, while only a youngster, is one of the most lovable persons appearing on the silver screen.

Preliminary notices of her new play say that she will enact the role of a society girl who becomes a school teacher when the family fortune dwindles. This is the type of role that Miss Mason should do exceedingly well, and is most after her own heart.

It is evident that Mr. Fox was desirous of making the picture one of the little star's best as he has surrounded her with an exceptionally able cast. Earl Metcalfe and Alan Forest are two of the best actors in the Fox studio and tiny Pat Moore is one of the leading child actors on the screen.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM

The motion picture that won the $10,000 prize in the scenario contest conducted by the Chicago Daily News, in which there were 32,000 entries will be seen at the Glendale Theatre Sunday. It is called "Broken Chains."

HAWAIIAN PRINCESS AT THE SHRINE CLUB MUSICAL SHOW, "SMILE AGAIN"

Miss Zolla Zorrano, Hollywood movie star who will play the part of "Lorna," the little Hawaiian girl in the Shrine club show next Thursday at the T. D. & L. theatre is an accomplished actress who studied in Europe before coming to California and whose face is well known to movie fans.

"Smile Again" is going to be a big success and a show well worth seeing. The only thing that seems to be worrying the Shrine club committee is whether they will have room for everybody; however, regular tickets can now be exchanged at the box office for reserved seats, so those who do not get a front seat can only blame themselves.

WHAT IS MAN? Past — Present — Future

E. P. Taliaferro

What is man—from the standpoint of Orthodox Theology—Science—the Bible?

What are we by nature—as a race?

"If a man die, shall he live again?"

Job. 14:14.

God's purpose in giving man a revelation of His Plan was that mankind should use it, understand it, and appreciate the principles it sets forth.

An understanding of the Bible broadens one's views and inspires cheerfulness and optimism.

If you are willing to discard "the traditions of the Fathers" and honestly seek the Truth as set forth in God's Word, you should hear:

WHAT MAN IS TO BE TOLD AT C. OF C.

E. P. Taliaferro to Lecture Under the Auspices of Bible Students

E. P. Taliaferro is to lecture Sunday, 7:45 p. m., in the Chamber of Commerce hall, under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association. His subject will be, "What Is Man? His Past, Present and Future."

From the Scriptures Mr. Taliaferro will show that man was neither created spiritual nor intended to become an angel, and that God did not impart to him an immortal soul but made him "a human soul," "of the earth, earthy."

He will further show that God gave Father Adam an earthly dominion—a perfectly earthly home and means of sustaining his human existence forever; that Adam lost life, home, dominion, everything, both for himself and for his posterity.

The meaning of the Scripture, "The Son of Man came to seek and save that which was lost," will next be discussed, showing that life, home and dominion lost by man were found and saved by the Man, Christ Jesus, and will be restored to man during the thousand year reign of Christ.

Glendale friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Faries of North Louise street have received word from them at Rockland, Mass. They expect to return some time this month. They have visited San Francisco, Chicago, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Syracuse. From Boston, Mass., they expect to go to Providence, New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Washington, Cincinnati, St. Louis, El Paso and home.

THE TOYS OF YESTERYEAR

Pray, where are the toys of the Yesteryear:
The jumping-jack with its flaring red,
The fuzzy dog and the antlered deer,
The drum with its sticks and tuncful head,
The Noah's ark with its wooden crew,
The building blocks with the letters on?
The child has toys that are bright and new,
But where, pray where, have the old friends gone?

Somewhere in the attic in corner dark
The jumping-jack and the split drum lie,
The wooden crew of the Noah's ark
And the tin of the battered infantry.
There, half by the rubbish and dust concealed,
The fuzzy dog and the wooden deer,
The building blocks with their colors peeled
Half off; and the stringless top is here.

Pray, where are the toys of the Yesteryear,
The gaudy dreams with their colors gay,
The castled hopes that were passing dear,
The joys of our boyhood's merry play?
The man has toys that are bright and new,
On the wreck of dreams new dreams appear,
But where are the hopes of the flaring hue
That were our toys of the Yesteryear?

Somewhere in the darkness the dead dreams fade,
The broken idol and shattered vase,
The castled hopes in their ruins laid
Come here to a common trysting place.
Half hid by the rubbish and dust of days
The wrecks of unnumbered dreams are here
That made us glad in a hundred ways,
And these are the toys of the Yesteryear.

bass; Mrs. J. E. Morison, soprano; Miss Matilda Rohr, contralto; Rev. D. M. Barr, tenor.
Prelude, "O Sanctissimo (Spindler); hymn, "Stand Up for Jesus" ("The Peace of God," by Miss Rohr (Gounod); quartet, "Benedictus Laud," "I Come to Thee" (Roma) Miss Rohr.

A GLENDALÉ SERVICE THAT IS FREE FOR PUBLIC USE

"Business" is the supplying of human wants, and the business today that is built on the foundation of honesty and supplying a real demand is the business that will grow by leaps and bounds. Reliable information, light, heat, ventilation, all are important factors in business. Every convenience for doing things in the best way possible is now being utilized. Any transaction where both sides do not make money is immoral. Time is money and it takes money to operate business; quick, reliable information saves much time, thus money, and increases your business. A man makes his business and by that business he is branded for life—he is a product of that business. Business was once conducted by violence—that time is past; now, the truthful method is the successful method. Real honesty in business is an asset, is a new discovery. In the past dishonesty has found willing ears, but now real business has no time to waste with it. We must not hear its pessimism. Those who conduct real business are filled with the thought and hearing of riveting machines building fifty stories overhead, with the silent raising of cards by mechanical means giving dependable information, with the pounding of the rock drills, with the whirl of the dynamos, the buzz of the trolley, the crackle of the wireless, the ring of the phone bells—and of all these wonderful inventions, just one serves the general public, free of cost to them, and that is the Cutler Selected Directory Service now being extended throughout 74 towns in 150 positions in Southern California. The Chamber of Commerce, Broadway Pharmacy, Graham & Kirk, each are ready to give you this Service—FREE.

Formal Opening Tomorrow of New Dining Rooms---

FORMAL opening takes place tomorrow of the three new dining rooms at Montgomery's Chanticleer Inn—more than trebling the original capacity.

If you enjoy an old-fashioned country dinner, delightful surroundings, comfortable chairs, and the willing service by pleasant girls, take your family and friends for a rare treat.

The enlargement makes possible the following new service:

WEEK DAYS—

Special baked ham plate dinner.....$1.00

Full course baked ham dinner.....$1.50

Full course fried chicken dinner.....$1.50

SUNDAYS—

Baked ham dinner, served country style..$2.00

Fried chicken dinner, served country style $2.00

The Inn caters to persons of refinement. There is no music or entertainment.
A new a la carte dining room has been built to accommodate those desiring light lunches, similar to those served at the stand or in your car. Here you may secure the delicious baked ham or frankfurter sandwiches which have made the Inn known to motorists throughout the West.

Special Features

Afternoon teas, and use of one of the dining rooms for card parties may be arranged with the management.

Because of the increased capacity, the Inn is now able to take care of dinner parties on comparatively short notice.

DREAM-TRACT OF NORTHWEST IS OPENED TO HOMESSEEKER

CLEVELAND KNOLL, ONE OF THE CHOICEST
PIECES OF PROPERTY IN GLENDALE'S MOST EXCLUSIVE SECTIONS, GOES ON MARKET TODAY

Cleveland Syndicate Buys 20 Acres of Dr. Kate S.
Black Property, Between Kenneth and Glenwood
Roads; Restrictions Are High; Lots Are Large

After an ownership by Dr. Kate Black for more than thirty years, twenty of the most beautiful acres of land in the unsurpassable northwest section of Glendale have just been purchased by a syndicate of Cleveland real estate men and builders, who are now subdividing the property.

This tract lies right. It is located close to the base of the wonderful green Verdugo hills, over which a large portion of Southern California is raving. These are the hills that persuaded Glendale's far-famed poet, John S. McGroarty, to make his home in this section. From the tract it is just a step to the hills, while down to the south the visitor to this tract is afforded a wonderful panorama of the San Fernando valley, one of the most fertile pieces of farming land in California.

This tract, which has been named Cleveland Knoll tract, lies between Kenneth road and Glenwood road and just east of Grand View ave., a concrete boulevard. For homestead purposes, it cannot be surpassed. It embodies everything that could be desired—view, excellent soil, fresh air, altitude—everything, and is right in the heart of the high-class northwest.

Those who realize the way that high class development is moving know that the Glendale northwest is destined to be one of the most exclusive sections in Southern California. More and more the men of means are being attracted to that locality. Everything they desire is there—nothing is lacking. And Cleveland Knoll is right in the heart of that very desirable northwest.

Every lot in Cleveland Knoll is covered with fruit. Each piece carries 15 and 20 orange or grape fruit trees. These trees have, since their planting, had the very best of care. The owner has kept them well cultivated, fertilized, irrigated, so that those who purchase one or more homesites in Cleveland Knoll can be assured of securing fruit trees that are right up to the minute in every respect.

The twenty acres in Cleveland Knoll is being divided into 84 lots. Two streets will be cut through the property, one to be known as Cleveland road and the other as Idyllwild road. Both of these will be fifty feet in width.

Cleveland road is being cut through right now. Dozens of large orange trees are being removed preparatory to the entrance of the street building gangs. Three inches of macadam will be placed as a surface covering for this street. Sidewalks will be laid and curbing will be installed. Everything in the way of improvements will be first class. Street work will be finished within sixty days.

Everything in the way of public utilities will be included in the prices of the lots. These will include water, gas, electricity, telephones, street lights. Nothing will be omitted.

The prices of the lots will range from $2000 to $4000. The inside lots on the side streets will have a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 154 feet, the corners will have a frontage of 71 feet, and the lots on Kenneth and Glenwood roads will be 60x145 feet. With the lots all having a wide frontage the greatest opportunity is afforded for the creating of real, high class suburban home places.

In order that this tract may be kept high class a building restriction of $5000 has been placed on all lots. This property has been placed in trust at the Security Trust & Savings Bank. Deeds will be issued to this bank and all money on the lots will be paid into that institution. These lots will be sold on an initial payment of 25 per cent of the total price, the remainder to be paid in three years in three equal payments.

This property was purchased about ten days ago by a Cleveland syndicate composed of A. Farinacci, who is the promoter, Joe Fortunato, Joe Di Vittorio, Secundo Teodo and Mike Maccario. These men are all prominent in the building and realty world around Cleveland, Ohio, and know the business thoroughly.

In connection with the selling of this property an architectural and building service will be conducted by Mr. Farinacci. Free plans and specifications will be provided to those wishing to avail themselves of this service. The idea of Mr. Farinacci in offering this service is not merely to build homes but to build homes that fit families that are going to occupy them. In the planning of these structures the builder's every wish will be considered, and suggestions will be offered here and there that will add to the attractiveness and the serviceability of the home. This architect and builder has planned and constructed more than one million dollars worth of homes in Cleveland, and he knows every detail of his profession.

This beautiful tract will be handled exclusively by the Foothill Realty company with offices at 103 East Doran street, which firm will maintain an office on the tract.

This subdivision is the property

FOOTHILL REALTY WILL HANDLE CLEVELAND KNOLL

The Foothill Realty Company is now selling agent for the new foothill tract that is just now being put on the market and is known as "Cleveland Knoll." This wonderful tract lies just east of Grand View avenue and extends south from Kenneth road as far as Glenwood Road and comprises 84 wonderful homesites. With the exception of the corner lots, which are larger, all the lots are 60x130 feet and are covered with some of the finest orange trees that can be found anywhere in Southern California. As everyone knows, foothill property is the choicest to be had in Glendale. Cleveland Knoll has a most wonderful view both of the city of Glendale to the south and the Verdugo hills to the north.

The opening prices for homesites in this tract are really low and will rapidly increase in value, in our estimation. Only 25 per cent is required as down payment and the balance to be paid in three years in three equal payments.

The tract office is at Kenneth road and the main office is at 103 East Doran street.

beautiful of this wonderful northwest section. It is among the choicest of the choice. The lots, which are being put on sale immediately, will doubtless be snatched up by those who appreciate truly high class property. The Dr. Black property has long been considered among the cream of the valley. The act of cutting it into large sized building lots will make it even more desirable. The opening prices on these lots are rock-bottom, considering the value that is offered.

INCREASE IN RENT IN PAST YEAR TOLD

Average Has Been One Per Cent Advance in Last 6 Months of 1922

There was an average increase of 1 per cent in the rents of wage-earners' houses and apartments in the United States between July, 1922, and November, 1922, according to the latest comprehensive report on the cost of living by the national industrial conference board, 10 East Thirty-ninth street, New York City. The increase is significant as the first slight advance in rents since March, 1921, when rents reached their peak for the country as a whole, and since which date they have been continuously declining to July, 1922. In November, 1922, rents were 67 per cent higher than in July, 1914.

The information on which these estimates are based was secured from authorities in close touch with the housing situation in 164 cities, including nearly every city in the United States with a population of 50,000 or over in 1920. The increases were accounted for neither by the size of the city nor section of the country, but apparently were due to purely local conditions, such as an influx of population, lack of new construction, increased cost of repairs and higher taxes.

The rent situation in the important cities in this section from which information was received is shown in the following table:

AIRPLANE VIEWS OF GLENDALE SHOWN

A treat is being afforded the people of Glendale by the Greenleaf Drug Company, at the corner of Harvard and Brand. This is in the form of several "airplane" pictures of Glendale. They were taken from over one thousand yards in the air and they show Glendale at an angle from which many of the people have never seen it.

These photographs were taken by William Cross, who was official government photographer during the war, and he used the same camera that he used in taking government pictures of the fighting in the battlefields of France. These aeroplane cameras are an invention which were the result of the need during the war of a camera that would take clear pictures at a very high elevation from an aeroplane flying at high speed.

These photographs have been colored by August Benke, the well-known water-color artist, and are really beautiful works of art. Glendale people will enjoy them very much, because they show in detail the streets, mountains and parks of our wonderful city, and we earnestly advise our readers to visit the Greenleaf Drug Store (corner of Brand boulevard and Harvard street) and see our city from the sky.

SPANISH TYPE OF ARCHITECTURE EXPLAINED

Quaint Spanish style, words that bring to us the fantastic vision of arcades, colonnades and the lacy carving and filigree work in decoration on them, then the beauty of color and design in tiles, blended on floor and wall, and the ripple of many fountains, making a veritable picture, as left to us by the Moors in their great masterpiece, the Alhambra of Granada.

a homesite with command of both the mountains and the sea would do well to have their architect develop a charming, rambling style that hugs closely to the side of the hill, bringing out every salient point in exposure that each view may be a lovely picture.

This type of home is one that you can just revel in furnishing, and yet extreme care should be taken that the color scheme be restful, realizing that the perpetual undulation of the ocean gives nearby activity.

The large living room which also serves as a dining room on occasion has a commanding view of the sea, and on the opposite side, through the winter garden or patio, can be seen the close-by live oaks, hills and mountains.

The floor of this room may be tiled, brick, stone or hardwood, and be well carpeted with a tufted rug from old Spain.

influence, could be successfully used.

A drawboard table and benches at one end of the room make possible a dining room service, and it is nice to have several kinds of comfortable chairs with Spanish influence that can be used at the table when needed.

A few pieces of overstuffed furniture should be placed in right balance in the room for comfort, and pains taken that literature, music, pictures and art objects supply the need for the mind and soul.

In the breakfast room, with its delightful southwest exposure, may be placed a breakfast set to accord with the fancy of its owner, and since the casements open toward the patio, draw curtains of any bright material may be used.

The billiard room, directly under the living room, with outlook toward the sea, is reached by a wrought-iron stairway, and should carry this same spirit into its decoration, having wrought-iron sconces at regular intervals around the

IS A CITY AS IMPORTANT AS A FACTORY OR HOTEL?

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Civic Development Expert

When you build a factory or a hotel you call in your experts. Your superintendent may know exactly the sort of a factory you should build or your chief clerk may have in mind all the essentials for a successful million-dollar hotel, but you don't let either of them do the actual planning. Nor do you permit the bricklayers and carpenters and plumbers to work out, as they go along, the sort of structure eventually you will possess.

Is the building of a city any less important than the building of a factory or hotel? Why call in experts for structures within the city and leave it to anybody, which means nobody in particular, to work out the character of the community of which you are a part?

It is true cities do grow and prosper without any plan or without the attention of experts. Some of them even become beautiful. But in such cases nature or location or sheer force of the people or some other factor, other than intelligent planning, is chiefly responsible for success.

Here in Southern California, where wonderful home centers are now in the making, an unusual opportunity is afforded for building the most attractive as well as the most economically arranged cities on earth. For a city without a plan is wasteful of its resources. A sane plan will provide for a minimum of wasted time and effort in the daily movement of population. That means economy.

It is no reflection upon the ability or good intentions of civic officials, or of chambers of commerce, or of other resident individuals or organizations to consult recognized talent in planning a city. Because the owners of an industrial plant call in architects, engineers and specialists the superintendent and foreman do not take offense. They may know as much about the job as the experts but lack the technical skill gained by years of study and experience in developing details of such structures as the one in hand.

In planning for an ideal city of the future the specialists whose knowledge is most needful are a city planner and experts in water supply and sewage disposal. This is particularly true of the cities in what is usually termed the Los Angeles metropolitan district. A city well laid out and zoned, with a street system designed to safely accommodate all the traffic likely to be put upon it, with ample parks and playgrounds, with adequate water supply for all uses, and with a sewage system to care for all needs is a city on a firm foundation for rapid and healthful growth.

At the outset it should be understood that city planning is not a fad, nor a graft, nor even a luxury. It is a practical proposition. The right kind of city planning will prevent waste of space, time, effort, money and nerves in the daily movement of business and home life. It will give pride in home and city and an added zest to work and living. It will conserve health and promote happiness. In these respects its value will be incalculable.

An intelligent city plan will map out or zone a city or district so as to bring most benefits to the most number. It will develop some thoroughfares as main traffic arteries and leave others as purely residential streets, safe from dangerous congestion on heavy traffic days. It will place parks and playgrounds to serve all classes and devise a grouping of public edifices around a central plaza or civic center. It will zone areas for retail trade most convenient to shoppers. It will establish industrial districts where factories and workshops will be best served by transportation facilities and obtain at least expense such municipal services as sewer, water, light and power as well as convenience of access from home districts for the workers.

Incidentally a well devised city plan will conserve the natural beauties of a location and so far as possible add to the charms of the city as a whole without detracting from the development of industrial or business areas. It will regulate character and height of buildings in certain areas and in residential districts define percentage of lot to be occupied by a dwelling. It will work out the most satisfactory street lighting system, inclusive of style and heights of standards, plant trees and shrubbery for shade or beauty and designate sites for arches, monuments, fountains or statuary. In connection with zoning there should be a housing code to safeguard health and welfare of occupants of all dwellings by providing for adequate light, ventilation, water supply, sewage and waste disposal.

In brief, a city plan is a definite program for a business-like, economical, healthful, beautiful and altogether very attractive city. Climate, environment and location being equal, a community built upon a good plan will soon outstrip its rivals without plans in growth and prosperity because for the same cost and effort those who dwell in the planned city will obtain quicker, greater and more lasting results. That ought to be reason enough to start preparing a plan right here.

walls, and two lamps reflecting light down on the billiard table.

Comfortable chairs should be supplied, with several bridge lamps and small tables, where a magazine, paper or smoking set may be placed, making this not only a billiard room, but a comfortable man's room.

Pictures and art objects, few in number, should key in with the atmosphere of the scheme, worked out in keeping with the utility of the room.

Maroon or green rep or velvet in draw curtains would make a successful treatment.

The chamber should reflect the personality of the individual, as these rooms are separate units and can be treated as such.

The patio, or out-of-door living room, should be carefully planned as to its shrubbery, flowers, water pool and fountain, developing centers of interest just as you would in a room.

Place chairs, tables and benches just where they would give comfort.

SUMMER HOMES POPULAR
If you want a summer home in the California mountains, at a nominal cost, it's high time you were getting busy for the United States Forest Service reports that the choice lots in the National forests are going like hot cakes. At the close of 1922 there were 3401 recreation permits in effect on the National forests of the state, a gain of more than 15 per cent over the previous year. Of this total, 3073 permits were for summer home sites, and 238 for hotels, resorts, municipal camps and other recreation features. The leading summer home forests are the Angeles and Cleveland, in Southern California.

SPARR HEIGHTS BUILDING OUTLOOK IS SCENE OF ACTIVITY FOR 1923 IS TOLD

Six Miles of Water Mains for Supply Have Arrived

Sparr Heights, the 1500 acre tract lying north-east of Glendale, on the picturesque Verdugo road, in the heart of the famous Verdugo valley, is now the scene of intense activity.

The six miles of four-inch iron pipe that is to be used as mains for distributing the water supply throughout the tract has recently been delivered and its installation has begun and is being rapidly pushed to completion, and when finished there will be a sufficient supply of pure mountain water to meet the needs of a community of 40,000 people.

The $20,000 Community Center building, dedicated to the City of Glendale and the inhabitants of Sparr Heights by the owners of the tract, the corner-stone of which was laid with imposing ceremonies December 24, is well under way and its Mission arches are already assuming definite shape.

Three separate gangs of contractors are hard at work grading the roads and installing the curbs, gutters and sidewalks, while a gang of engineers is at work setting stakes to mark the boundaries and establish the grades of the curving boulevards that are to traverse the tract.

The Oakmont Country Club has at last accepted a design for the club building and work has already begun on the site for the structure and the mammoth swimming pool, which will be one of its most attractive features.

Work on the construction of the 18-hole golf course will begin shortly and be pushed rapidly and it will not be many months before its vivid greens will skirt the boulevard, adding another picturesque feature to this favorite boulevard drive. This course, comprising 120 acres, lies in the very center of Sparr Heights and will eventually be surrounded by handsome homes, for which it will constitute a most attractive foreground and be the Copper and Brass Research Association estimates probable building completions in 1923 at $6,000,000, 000 for the United States.

This is based upon an estimated completion in 1922, with 11 months' statistics available, of $4,910,000, 000, and projected program of $7,390,000,000, making a carry-over of $2,480,000,000 that the association has further reduced to $1,240,000, 000 to allow for changes in plans and over-estimates of actual cost.

The association estimates the potential market for copper in building construction next year at 780,000,000 pounds. This includes sheet copper for roofing, leaders and gutters as well as copper content of brass used in pipe, hardware and lighting fixtures.

The association estimates that actual completions in 1923 will be for New England states, $455,000, 000; New York state, southwestern Connecticut, northern New Jersey, northern Pennsylvania, $1,395,000, 000; eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, Virginia, North and South Carolina, $825,000,000; western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, $755,000,000; Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, $1,600,000,000; eastern Montana, North and South Dakota, eastern Nebraska, eastern Kansas, $950, 000,000; Pacific coast states, Gulf states, and Arkansas, Oklahoma, Idaho, Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, $720,000,000.

means of attracting many golf enthusiasts from Glendale, Eagle Rock and adjacent territory.

Several artistic homes are already in process of construction, and plans for some twenty-six more pretentious residences have already been approved, the work on which will begin in the immediate future, and intense activity is in pronounced progress all over the tract.

FATIGUE AND VISION

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

An interesting and curious effect of fatigue on the eyesight has lately been reported by the European scientist Boehmig. In proportion as people become fatigued, it appears, their ability to distinguish colors lessens, so that an actual color blindness may temporarily develop.

This, at all events, is what occurred in the case of certain athletes tested by Boehmig.

After the athletes had been thoroughly wearied by physical exercise they were requested to look at small objects of different colors and name the color of each. Many mistakes were made, and in particular some of those tested were unable to recognize the colors of red and green objects.

Yet, similarly tested before their exercise, none had shown any defect of color vision. Nor did any show defects when tested once more, after a good rest.

To explain these findings a correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association recalls the familiar fact of fatigue poisoning, concerning which he says in a passage that admirably summarizes present knowledge of the subject:

"The so-called fatigue substances will doubtless have to be assumed to be the cause of this hitherto unobserved disturbance of color vision. I have reference to the waste products of metabolism that collect in the muscular tissue following muscular activity and that cause the well-known painful feeling in muscles that have been used to the limit.

"As a rule, these fatigue substances are removed from the muscular tissue through the blood stream, the skin, the kidney, and the intestine, and are eliminated from the body. If the muscular work is prolonged large quantities of the fatigue substances collect in the muscles or the blood stream, and, since in this case elimination cannot proceed so rapidly, their harmful effect is noted, and the subject feels tired and exhausted.

"Certain investigators have regarded lactic acid as the main fatigue substance; others have postulated phosphoric acid, either free or combined with acid salts. Their actual effect has been demonstrated by noting that when the blood of fatigued animals is injected into healthy resting animals distinct symptoms of bodily exertion and fatigue are produced."

Whether the phenomena reported by Boehmig are or are not due to a self-poisoning, the matter must be accounted one of sufficient practical importance to warrant further researches to determine to what extent there really is the temporary color blindness found in the tested athletes.

For, as everybody knows, ability to distinguish colors is in many occupations a qualification of vital significance. Certainly it is such in railroading and steamboating, to mention only two occupations wherein life itself may depend on the correct reading of colored signals.

And, clearly, if Boehmig's findings hold, universally true as regards larger as well as small colored objects, it becomes more than ever the part of wisdom to avoid any overworking of employees who may have to read colored signals, and to insist on their safeguarding themselves, so far as is possible, from fatigue when away from their work.

If would, just as clearly, do little good to shorten their working hours unless they were careful not to use the extra leisure in ways that exhaust. For then they would be fully as liable to misread signals as would be the case were they exhausted by overwork.

GARDEN PLANNING IS A REAL SECRET

Planning a flower garden is a more difficult and complicated task than laying out a vegetable garden. In the vegetable garden straight rows to each variety give the ideal plan. It is quite the opposite for a flower garden or flower border. Either formal beds of geometrical outline or informal plantings may be used. Then, too, most important of all is the color plan. The placing of the various hues in harmonious association or in pleasing contrast is a problem for close study.

If the flower garden is to be formal, lay out the beds in squares, circles, rectangles or any shape desired, which is fitted to secure artistic and economic utility of the space at hand. These can be drawn to scale easily enough and no great difficulty in transferring the plan from the ground exists.

If an informal border or long bed of many varieties is desired—and this is one of the most popular methods, particularly along walks and boundaries—planning is much more of a task. Paper ruled off in squares of one-tenth of an inch with heavier line rulings is desirable for this job.

First decide whether the border is to have straight lines or whether it is to be of irregular edge, with gently curving lines, this being the most artistic method and lending greater variety and grace to the planting. With the ruled paper draw this outline to a scale of one-tenth of an inch to a foot, after measuring the ground with a tape measure. Then mark off the space you desire to give to each colony of annuals. The little squares on the paper will readily show you the outline and dimensions of the space.

In transferring the plan to the border, the ground may be ruled off with a tennis marker or with strings to correspond with the plan. This trouble is necessary only when the border is of such extent that it is difficult to judge by the eye alone of relative distances.

Study the height that plants grow, placing the tallest at the back, occasionally letting a tall colony extend to the front to break up monotony of outline. The low-growing plants naturally belong on the edges. Consult the seed catalogues or packets for the proper distance apart that the various annuals should be placed and draw your plan accordingly. Raise plants sufficient for your plan with a reserve in case some of them should die or fall victim to insects. Then you can fill any gaps readily.

The extra reserve is also necessary in the case of some varieties which produce a percentage of "rogues," which are off color or single. Such undesirables may be removed when they appear in the border and their places be supplied with perfect plants from the reserve. This is of prime importance, as inferior specimens often ruin the effect of a planting.

Raise Better Chickens at Roscoe

Roscoe, the new payroll town, on San Fernando Road, 4 1/2 miles beyond Burbank, has all the advantages that make Petaluma the greatest chicken raising center in America.

Roscoe has the elevation that lifts it above fog, that bugaboo of the poultry man. It has a warm, sandy loam soil, ideal for chickens—it has a wonderful water supply.

Already, poultry men by the dozen are locating in Roscoe district. A big company, manufacturing incubators and other poultry equipment, has built two factories there—and orders have swamped it.

Come out to Roscoe. Raise better chickens, and more of them. Make money in the most profitable small business known. We can start you off there, so that failure is almost impossible.

Roscoe property offers you wonderful prospects for investment. A real city is developing there. Business lots on San Fernando Road are only $1000 now; residence lots $500; acre lots $850. Easy terms and assistance to build.

Come out to our tract office and see Mr. Amunds, or call up and arrange for us to take you out.

IMPORTANT FACTS FOR POULTRY LOVERS

All over the United States there are probably a score of journals published exclusively in the interests of poultry and as many more devoted to rabbits, pigeons and pet stock in general.

Taking poultry alone, which may be said to include chickens, ducks and turkeys, if one should try to follow only a portion of all the various methods in use and outlined, things would certainly be confusing.

The basic principles of poultry raising are generally well understood by most writers who presume to advise the general public, or rather, the many who are interested in raising or keeping poultry, but even practical poultrymen themselves differ in so many methods as to the best way of being successful with poultry that it is a difficult matter to determine which may be the best way or the right way.

As to the beginner, it will be just as well for him to read as many different opinions on methods as possible, because in this way he can frequently determine for himself which way suits his own conditions and system which he may be following or have in mind.

It must be remembered that many articles on successful poultry keeping are written by experts who may have gained their knowledge under entirely different conditions and sections of the country from where the reader or student may live.

All these things must be taken into consideration, but no time can be considered wholly lost in reading about the experience of others, no matter where located.

But after one has absorbed all the theoretical knowledge he will still have to gain his practical knowledge of poultry by keeping them, watching them, and one might say, living with them.

If one begins by hatching, we will say, by incubator, the eggs will have to be carefully selected.

Then will come the proper care and operation of the machine, keeping the eggs in the right temperature, moisture, ventilation, turning and airing them.

When the hatch comes off, the chicks must be properly brooded as to heat, light and air.

Every individual chick must be watched at some time each day.

Forgetting to give them fresh water as often as necessary may result in the loss of a number of chicks.

As they grow older some of the weaker ones may have to be separated from the stronger, then when a little older divided into smaller flocks, at the proper age the young males separated from the females, and the most forward looking pullets placed by themselves, so they will mature faster and begin to lay at an earlier date than some others.

They must all have the proper housing and feed. When older the surplus cockerels are to be disposed of at the time when it is most profitable to do so, guided by market conditions and the growth of the fowl.

All these details and many others must be learned by the beginner, and unless one is disposed to be advised by an older and experienced hand, the first year's poultry experience may not only be disappointing, but costly as well.

Concerns that are run on a strictly business basis eliminate the backward chickens at an early age, thereby saving the cost of raising them to maturity.

Others are only hatching eggs from proven heavy laying hens, sired by males from heavy producing parents.

Uncle Joe, on a visit to his brother's household, seemed particularly interested in Henry, the hopeful.

"And what are you going to be when you grow up, Henry?" he asked, generally.

"Well," returned Henry, thoughtfully, "after I have been a minister to please mother, and a judge to please father, I am going to be a policeman."

THE COLOR SCHEME IN YOUR OWN GARDEN

Color arrangement is now regarded as most important in ornamental gardening and is enlisted the most careful study. A gardener for the most part should be guided by his own taste and use the colors which he particularly admires. If he prefers blue and purple to scarlet, orange and yellow, he should plan a garden in which his favorites would be the prevailing tones with touches of contrasting and harmonizing colors to emphasize and relieve the blue and purple.

Pale yellows and pinks used with bluffs of the lighter shades, and orange used in contrast with lavenders and purples, make admirable combinations.

The orange African marigolds planted with ageratum make a picture to remember. The ageratum also is excellent with the velvety orange, maroon and mahogany shades of the French marigolds.

As a general rule, in planning for color effect one may start at one end with the true blues, then use pink and rose shades, then yellows shading into orange, then the scarlets and deeper shades, then a little more orange and the lavenders and purples with relief plantings of some white annual; finally not too great a mass of white should be used. Plant it rather sparingly throughout the border as it attracts attention from other coloring when used too freely and at a distance gives a spotty effect.

Beautiful color plantings may be worked out in the various kinds of annuals.

An aster planting may begin with the deep purples, following with the deep lavenders, the rose pinks, lighter lavenders, flesh colors, then the darker rose colors and deepest toned reds.

Snagdragons may be planted in various unusual shades of yellow and buff, fawn, orange and scarlet to deep crimsons.

In all color schemes a sizable group of a single color gives by far a finer effect than can be secured from mixed plantings.

Zinnias in masses of brilliant scarlet, the wonderful burnt oranges, the delicate new pink shades, and creams and yellows make particularly gorgeous plantings.

MAKING USE OF GARDEN FENCE

Plan to use the fences that surround your vegetable garden this year. They will carry good crops and utilize space often wasted. If you have board fences, tomatoes may be trained against them with loops of cloth and tacks, particularly the south exposure of the fence along the north boundary of the premises. Strings or chicken wire may be nailed to board fences up on which tomatoes, cucumbers, pole or string lima beans may climb. If you have wire fences, the tall peas and beans may be planted along them.

A 5-foot fence will support eight tomato plants three feet apart and with the warmth of boards reflecting the heat of the sun behind them fruits will ripen more quickly than those trained to stakes in the open or allowed to ramble over the ground.

Cucumbers used as climbing vines instead of being allowed to ramble over the ground, are something of a novelty with most gardeners; yet an observation of the vine fitted with tendrils shows that it is naturally a climber and it will attach itself to any support that happens to be handy. Greenhouse-grown cucumbers are always trained to string or wire, reaching from the earth to the roof of the house.

If vegetables are not desired, gourds to furnish playthings for the children are admirable decorations for the garden fences. They come in great variety and various shapes, sizes and colors.

They were very much in love. "Albert," she said coyly, "you have such affectionate eyes."

He preened himself and put his tie straight.

"Do you really mean that, dear?" he asked.

"Yes," replied the maiden, "yes, they are always looking at each other."

GATEWAY GROWTH IS PHENOMENAL

Indications of the Future
Are for Big Development

The gateway to Glendale and to the San Fernando valley has had a remarkable period of growth during the past year, and the near future will see still more developments on as large a scale or even larger. A first-class business district, with modern and attractive buildings, in the vicinity of San Fernando road and Brand boulevard, is proving a nucleus in attracting similar real estate ventures and investments.

The first building in this vicinity was that constructed by Harry E. White, and includes two units, garage and automobile and tractor salesrooms on the plot of ground facing on San Fernando road, Brand boulevard and Forest street. Just a year ago George B. Karr's Gateway market building was completed and is now occupied by the Baldwin Shirt company, a drug store, lunch stand, fruit market, grocery store, meat market, bakery, delicatessen, hardware store and monument works' office and real estate. This building is a one-story structure but covers a large piece of ground. It is of a modified mission type of architecture, finished in cream colored stucco.

A few months later ground was broken for the Orff building at 1726-28½ South San Fernando road, near Brand. This was completed about September. In it are located the new Community Savings and Commercial bank, a ladies' and gents' furnishings and shoe store, a barber shop and real estate office, and a dental office and apartments on the second floor.

With the stability of this neighborhood thus established as a business section, a large theatre, which will seat about 900 people, is being erected on San Fernando road between Cerritos avenue and Mira Loma. The excavation work has been completed and the foundation is being put in. On either side of the lobby will be located stores, and there will be a number of office rooms on the second floor. The building is being erected for Fred Miller of the California Theatre, Los Angeles, and associates.

George and Ray Bentley have purchased the house and lot at the corner of Cerritos and San Fernando road and intend to move the house and erect a business block in the near future. The two-story residence at San Fernando and Mira Loma is to be moved in order to make way for business, also. Eventually this new business section, as well as the district at Park avenue and San Fernando road will connect up with the other business center at Los Feliz road, and improvements will take place there. Situated as it is, on one of the principal traffic arteries to and from San Fernando valley and Northern California, as well as Los Angeles, its future development will undoubtedly be rapid.

The electrification of the Union Pacific's line on Glendale avenue will be another big factor in the development of the southern section, as well as the entire city of Glendale. Another big improvement will be the erection of a new Southern Pacific depot between the present location and the crossing of the P. E. tracks, at the foot of the contemplated prolongation of Mira Loma avenue from Gardena to the S. P. right-of-way. The company expects to buy the property required for this extension of Mira Loma. This location can easily be reached by the traveler from Hollywood or Pasadena by motor bus lines, and equally convenient to the local people and those of the northern section of Los Angeles by way of the Pacific Electric cars.

Not only business blocks, but homes, apartment houses and bungalow courts are being built in large numbers. And it is reasonable to believe that the more homes in a district the better business will be.

It is the contention of many people in this district that the completion of the proposed union railroad terminal at the Plaza in Los Angeles will benefit Glendale. With its large program of improvements, which will undoubtedly include millions of dollars for yards, roundhouses, switches, etc., home-sites for those employed in this connection and also at the main union terminal depot will be in demand in locations which will be easily accessible without going through the congested business district of Los Angeles. Already a large number of homes have been built in the district between the tracks and Riverside drive, almost west to Burbank, as well as in the southern part of Glendale. This number, no doubt, will be greatly increased when construction on the new terminal is begun.

The future should also see much development on South Brand boulevard. Several deals are already under way for the erection of business blocks along that thoroughfare. The lowering of the Pacific Electric tracks on Brand boulevard should also prove a big boost for further development. The next step will be to secure the lowering of the tracks to the southern city limits.

Another improvement which should encourage business developments in the southern section of the city is the new direct route to the sea. The Los Angeles City Planning Commission is now preparing plans for such a route to the ocean from Glendale boulevard at the Ivanhoe bridge by viaduct to Hyperion avenue at its intersection with Waverly avenue, and under Sunset boulevard to Santa Monica boulevard and Myra avenue.

Truths in Epigram

The temple of fame stands upon the grave; the flame that burns upon its altars is kindled from the ashes of dead men.—Hazlitt.

They that deny a God destroy man's nobility; for certainly man is of kin to the beasts by his body; and, if he be not of kin to God by his spirit, he is a base and ignoble creature.—Bacon.

BONDS USELESSLY BROKEN

The allies are drifting apart. There is in Europe no unity of sentiment. Only a few months ago the soldiers of many nations fought shoulder to shoulder against a common foe. That was friendship. Sealed in the blood of heroic men, it should have been no mere passing convenience. Fraternity, so sprung into being, deserved to be abiding, a real brotherhood; the declaration of true intent that there was to be no more war.

But greed has come back into the shaping of human affairs. Every nation seems to be for that nation alone. There is no effort to establish peace. Diplomats discuss peace, of course, that being what they are for. They mean a peace that shall be based on conditions that accord with their own desires. They do not mean a peace that is even remotely altruistic. They have not in mind a peace that is to be for the good of all. It is designed by each to be a peace satisfactory and profitable to that nation, and the devil may take the rest. In this there is to be discerned no prospect of restored tranquility.

It is to be feared that the world had a great opportunity, and that, throwing it away, may have it no more. It could have healed the wounds, and even effaced the scars of war. The United States was asked to become leader of this most benign essay towards establishing justice. It was not permitted to accept. Its political statesmen, bawling loudly, scared it into shirking a duty so plain that all might see. The United States kept aloof. This took the virility out of the plan. It had no guiding power. It could not maintain coherence. It was fated to fail, because denied the element that would have been its chief strength.

The nations, apparently about to cast anchor in still waters, were sent adrift, into seas swept by storm. They have been drifting ever since; and as they drift, the storm becomes a tempest.

THE SPECTACLE OF BEAUTY

The beauty of land and sea, of running water, of surging deep; of hills clothed in verdure, of mountain rising to majestic height, makes a singularly strong appeal to the senses. The observer is conscious of an emotion such as that which sweeps him at the sound of exquisite harmony. "The heavens declare the glory of God," but under the heavens are countless phases of the creative expression, that, perhaps in less overwhelming note, help to make the declaration. There is a glory over all the visible world, and in this man has the right to participate. He looks upon wonders that he may not even feebly imitate. Striving to read the secrets they conceal, he is lifted to a plane of dignity, and his mood becomes reverent.

One of the charms of southern California is held by the mountains that adorn it. Graceful in contour, they yet are abrupt enough to be awesome. Situated so that semi-tropical fruit grows at their bases, at this season they may be crowned with snow. Even the foothills approaching them, at times receive a feathery and fleeting robe. In this region the homes close to the foothills may be showered, not with drops of rain, but with flakes, that linger only briefly, yet as they fall, afford a delightful panorama.

Recently the mountains have been getting more than the ordinary amount of winter snow. This means for the present, that looking up from the valley, one may see a spectacle of striking beauty. For the fertile fields and orchards below, it means future moisture, penetrating and gently bestowed.

Southern California has to be satisfied generally with glimpses of snow at a distance. The sight is so rare as never to lose its novelty. Whenever it comes, it comes as a pleasing surprise, in the minds of many awakening memories.

NO ARMOR OF YOUTH

On behalf of the two boys who confess to a murder for which they have no regrets, youth is not to be pleaded. Such is the present understanding. Had they been under eighteen, it would have been necessary to try them in juvenile court. Capital punishment may not be inflicted on any criminal young enough to be arraigned in that tribunal. It is probable that the public will be relieved to hear that the pair are to be treated as desperate criminals rather than as wayward lads.

These prisoners represent a type that is both new and terrible. Their nonchalance is astounding. They do not seem to realize that in slaying a man who had befriended them, they were doing anything out of the ordinary. At first they were a little inclined to boast about it. There has not been displayed by either the faintest shade of remorse. They appear to be absolutely devoid of moral sense.

The claim will be set up for them that they are not normal and therefore not responsible. However, society finds necessity for eliminating the mad dog. It does this without the least malice towards the unfortunate creature. These prisoners are unfortunate creatures. As the law now stands, were they sent to prison "for life," the chances would be that at the end of a short term of years they would be freed. Or if, because of the atrocity of their act, they failed to get liberty, the society to which they are dangerous, would be obliged to support them for the rest of their natural lives, a span perhaps of fifty years. Does this obligation rest on society?

Latvia is a new government but not unlikely to have experiences such as will mature it suddenly. As a buffer state between Russia and Poland, the red armies may desire passage across, as Germany sought to make of Belgium a thoroughfare to France. The mood of Latvia is as hostile to the idea as was that of Belgium. Much has been said concerning the size of the soviet army. As to its potency little is known. As to the real purpose of the soviet regime at this moment, save that as always, it delights in promotion of turmoil, ignorance is almost complete.

DOWN WENT M'GINTY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Every once in a while something happens that jolts us into a realization of the flight of time.

Of course, the topic is threadbare, but the fact is it is as old as humanity and is ever present with us.

Some of us who are gray-heads now remember the time years ago when everybody was singing the song "Down Went McGinty."

For the benefit of the youngsters whose memories do not extend so far, I will quote a bit of it:

Sunday morning just at 9,
Dan McGinty dressed so fine,
Stood looking at a very high stone wall;

When along came Pat McCann,
who said, "I'll bet $5 Dan,
I can carry yez to the top without a fall."

On his shoulders he took Dan, to climb the ladder he began,

Until he'd nearly reached the top;
When for fear he'd lose his five, just as sure as I'm alive,

Dan let go his hold, not thinking of the drop.

CHORUS:
Down went McGinty to the bottom of the wall
Dressed in his best suit of clothes.

All this is called to mind by an item in the press the other day reporting that Maggie Cline, who more than a generation ago was a star of the variety stage in America, was dying in her home. It was in 1881 when she, a trim, pert and blushing maiden with a wonderful strawberry-colored locks, made a diffident debut in New York at Tony Pastor's, says the press report.

"The nervous youngster was becomingly garbed by the stage manager in dainty pink tights and a dollar-forty blue waist."

However, she did the one thing for which the public is willing to give an immense sum of money. She produced a different sort of laugh and tickled the jaded interest of theater-goers.

She was vigorous and vociferous, and chock full of pep.

"When she sang to the roar of horse fiddles, pistols, smashing glass and sheet-iron thunder, forerunners of jazz effects, that knock-'em-down and drag-'em-out ditty, 'Trow him down, McCloskey,' the whole house joined in the ceiling-shaking refrain."

That refrain ran:
"Trow him down, McCloskey," was to be the battle cry.

"Trow him down, McCloskey, you can lick him if you try!"

And future generations with wonder and delight will read on history's pages of the great McCloskey fight.

Maggie Cline retired ten years ago.

Like a torchlight procession going over the hill, we see the receding flashes of popular songs.

A few years ago it was "A Long Way to Tipperary," and "Pack up Your Troubles," and "Over There."

Away before that it was "Her Golden Hair Was Hanging Down Her Back," and "A Hot Time in the Old Town."

And when our grandfathers were young they were singing "Dixie," and "Rally Round the Flag."

And we have almost lost sight of the days when young people sang "Annie Laurie" and "Bonnie Doon."

When the high school girl bursts into the room and says, "O Grandpa, here's the latest song," and sings the newest love ditty, she wonders curiously at Grandpa's sad smile and has no idea of the memories that come to him as she hears him after a while humming "When the Corn Is Waving, Annie Dear."

Sic transit everything.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUERIES
To Roman F. Welzant, Chicago, Ill.:

You have asked whether to use he or him in each of the following sentences: People like he (him) are popular; Every one is in step but he (him); The right word is him in each of the sentences.

Edward P. Wells, New York City: "Will you kindly advise which of the following sentences is correct, and why: 'Between you and I' or 'Between you and me'?"

Answer: Between you and me is correct. Observe the following: between (you and me); between me, is not the reason for the selection of me, therefore, apparent? You would hardly say like I, to I, or between I.

M. H. Hughes, Ottawa, Canada: "Which of the following is correct: There is a vacancy on the staff; There is a vacancy in the staff? Kindly state the principle governing the use of 'on' and 'in' as used in reference to occupations, e. g.: a position in the department; a position on the Headquarters Staff."

Answer: In is the right word in the following: There is a vacancy in the staff. When an individual is a part of, attached to, or comprised in, a staff, committee, board, the right word is on; as, He is on the Headquarters staff. But he is in a department. He has a position in a bank; he has a position in our department. Also, he has a position on the Headquarters Staff.

Eleanor Hill, Chicago, Ill.: Will you kindly make it very clear as to the difference in the using of a dash (—) and the semicolon (;)? It always confuses me as to when I should use a dash or a semicolon. Your column is most helpful. I believe a good suggestion would be to use a series in explanation of the comma, semicolon, colon, period and dash.

Answer: In general it may be said of the dash that it indicates an abrupt change of thought within a sentence: as, In every word you said—what ailed you anyway—I could detect a note of sadness. Dashes are also used, like commas and parentheses, for parenthetical purposes; as, This will be accomplished—no matter what you say—by the end of the month. A dash may precede a tacked-on thought; as, Put out the flag—why it is already out. The foregoing is a brief treatment of the use of the dash, which should be avoided except when its use is very desirable. Acting on Miss Hill's suggestion there will be, within a few days, an article on the use of the semicolon. Other articles on punctuation will follow from time to time.

conditions that make for happiness and usefulness and none of which you can well get along without.

You've got to have life, of course.

As a condition of being and motion and impulse and sensation and will and all that.

There is no happiness among the stones.

Rocks sing no songs.

Trees may and flowers.

But they are animate things.

They have motion and it may be sensation.

The golden poppy closes at the twilight.

Folds its leaves into a little cylinder.

And there remains like the wick of a golden candle till the morning.

So the leaves in some way respond to the light.

Or to the air.

So the golden poppy has will.

It closes its leaves tightly.

More tightly and closely and symmetrically than you could do if you tried.

And it has energy.

For without energy it could not fold its leaves closely.

And it has sensation.

For without sensation it would not fold its leaves at a particular time and unfold them again at another particular time.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Most persons go through life not having seen a rabid dog. Many of them carry to the end the conviction that there are no rabid dogs. At least they scout the idea that a dog is susceptible to a condition that causes its bite to set up hydrophobia in the human. This conviction, permitted full sway, might mean danger.

"Beware the Dog!" is a useful sign. Men whose business is the training, impounding, or judging of dogs, are bitten times without number. They think nothing of such an experience, take no precaution in relation to it. They will declare that they never knew an instance in which such a bite did any more harm than an equally large puncture of the tissue by other means, a knife, a nail or a thorn.

Wounds, however imparted, are subject to infection. There is some danger in any breaking of the skin. Death has been caused by the scratch of a rose briar or a pin.

This is being said in order to prevent such readers as may heed it, from being unduly nervous over the rumored prevalence of rabies in some communities. A dog angry or worried enough to bite viciously, is not necessarily rabid. Were rabies the rule under such circumstances, the world must long ago have perished in convulsions.

But all this does not mean that any chance whatever should be taken. There may be the exceptional case where rabies exists. The scientist so declares, and the layman has no right to assert that the scientist is mistaken.

The lover of dogs hardly could advocate the policy of permitting the animals to roam unchecked. The homeless dog should be pitied, and put out of the possibility of suffering, or of inflicting damage. The owner of a dog, unless willing to keep the animal properly, thus assuring its health, and preventing it either from becoming a menace, or by the timid, regarded as a menace, is not doing his duty.

Of the countless thousands who like dogs, there is not one that desires to be bitten, rabies or no rabies. Sympathy for timid people demands restriction of canine freedom.

The possible danger of hydrophobia, however remote, demands safeguards.

Regard for dogs, friendly, harmless roving vagrants, hungry, thirsty, chilled and harassed, suggests the urgent need of their extermination by kindly methods.

Two young couples were driving to one of the beaches with intent to dance. The driving must have been reckless, for the machine was overturned. The couple in front escaped unhurt, but the pair in the rear were pinned under the wreck, and there they remained for two hours, until rescued by strangers. The other couple had gone on to the dance, not so much as reporting the incident. The male was arrested, however, as they yestered the hall.

As an example of the prevailing nonchalance of youth, perhaps this is as striking as may be cited. Were the prisoner analyzed, it would take an expert to find trace of a soul in him.

BERAN MAKES BIG REYNOLDS TRACT CUT IN HOME BUILDING TO BE CUT UP SOON

A home fit for a king for a price that is really a marvel, is the offer that is being made this week by the building company of S. S. Beran, 305 South Brand boulevard. Here's the specifications of this building:

Six-room stucco residence, including a 12x16 garage. All cement work; Superba or Ruud water heater; oak floors throughout, inlaid linoleum on bath and kitchen; tile sink, composition closed-in bathtub, pony tray, pedestal lavatory and cove ceiling in living and dining rooms; tile trimmings on front of house. Price, complete, $4,486. If, in doubt of the S. S. Beran company, ride around Glendale and count signs on new work they have under construction. They are their own original designers.

Tears of joy are quite as salty as those of woe.

Another orange grove has gone glimmering to make room for the homes of some of the thousands of people all over the United States who have their faces turned toward Glendale. This time it is William H. Reynolds who is changing the face of nature. The 20-acre ranch on which he has been raising oranges, situated on Kenneth road, is now being platted into lots and will be put on the market in about ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds, who are Glendale pioneers, have witnessed all the development of the wonder city and yet, phenomenal as it has been, it has come about so logically and rationally, says Mrs. Reynolds, that she can hardly realize it even yet, although she can remember her bicycle rides over the unpaved roads that were Broadway, Louise, Central and Glendale avenue.

GARDENING POINTS TOLD BY AN EXPERT

Few are so favored of fortune that they have the ideal soil or situation for a garden. But such lack is no particular cause for worry. If the soil is not clear sand or gravel, and is not located in deep, impenetrable shade, it can be made to grow and yield a crop of vegetables.

The one absolute essential is sun. A vegetable garden to be a success must have sun for at least part of the day. There are a few vegetables which will survive shade, but none flourishes as vigorously or crops as reliably as in the sun.

Also, it is not necessary to worry over securing a supply of barnyard manure, which is becoming more and more a matter of difficulty and expense, unless the soil is very light and sandy. In the ordinary run of soil, a very successful vegetable garden may be grown with the use of commercial fertilizers easily procurable of any seed dealer.

There will always be a supply of autumn leaves, grass clippings, and dried weeds to be had, and these may be utilized for the most valuable function of barnyard manure—supplying humus to the soil. Up-to-date gardeners are making more and more use of these materials and so-called "green manures" to replace the decreasing supply of animal manures—and with excellent results. "Green manure" is a crop of clover or some other leguminous plant plowed under to improve the soil.

If you have a patch of land which is sunny for most of the day, do not hesitate to start your garden. It will be a good investment, provide healthful exercise, and furnish a new interest.

The home garden offers the only means by which some of our favorite vegetables can be placed at their best on your table.

Sweet corn is a striking example. Within half an hour after an ear is picked the loss of sugar content begins, through chemical action. The better varieties of sweet corn contain from 5 percent up of sugar, which gives them their delicious flavor. Only the home gardener, who learns to tell when the corn has arrived at that stage of development which is "just right," and who picks it at that stage, cooks it briefly in boiling water—again "just right," and sinks his teeth into its well-buttered tenderness half an hour after it has left the stalk—only he knows what sweet corn really is. Others may think they know, but for all who have not experienced the treat described, there is a joy remaining which they should not miss before they die.

Resolve to know it this year, and plan your garden now.

VARIOUS TYPES OF HOME WALLS TOLD

The object in all building construction is to make outer walls impervious. Whether building of brick or tile or concrete, the problem has always been to effect a saving in material by hollow-wall construction and utilize the air space for insulating the interior walls from either extreme heat or cold.

This method of construction has now been applied to the problem where it is possible to erect a masonry building with the inner and outer walls connected only by tie-wires, thus doing away with all possibility of moisture passing through. One type of hollow wall is made with a movable form which casts two vertical slabs of concrete in small sections, moving around the walls of the building until carried up to the desired height. This is well named "Thermos bottle" construction and when well built, is the ideal method for a dry, comfortable house with longest life and least cost of upkeep.

In most of the other types, there is a web of the material used to tie the two walls together and this is the cause of sweating in many hollow masonry walls. The moisture follows through from the outer wall and causes dampness in the living rooms. Usually a treatment of paint or waterproofing on the outer surface will correct this.

WALNUT GLEN IS CALLING HOME BUYERS

Hundreds of home buyers are being attracted to Walnut Glen.

Dozens are finding that this tract is just the one they have been looking for since landing in the Golden state.

These dozens have grasped the opportunity of securing some of these valuable homesites, and some are already beginning construction work on their homes. Before you know it, a little town will have sprung up in Walnut Glen—and the prices that are now being asked for lots in that subdivision will have doubled and trebled. The opportunity to get in on the ground floor will have been lost forever.

The owners of this property report that they are securing an unexpectedly large number of inquiries for their property from people living in and around Glendale. Many of these folks have been buying and selling property here for years and know real values when they see them. These people are quietly picking up one or more of these sites for investment purposes.

To reach Walnut Glen, which is being sold by J. W. Mackey, whose main office is at 211 West Broadway, go north from the center of Glendale out San Fernando road, turn to left at Western. The tract is one block west of San Fernando road.

VINE BACKGROUND AND DRAPERIES EXPLAINED

Look after your garden draperies.

Much of the beauty of a flower garden or ornamental planting is dependent upon background. In drawing the plan of your flower garden or border, always consider the effect of the plants against the background.

Drape your fences with vines, especially in positions where there will be no shrubbery or high growing perennials or annuals to furnish background.

There are many annual vines starting with the familiar common morning glories, the beautiful Japanese morning glories with their fringed, variegated and delicately tinted bloom; tall nasturtiums to furnish not only fine foliage but a wealth of flowers; the hyacinth bean with its lavender blossoms and even more ornament at purple pods; the scarlet runner bean, the fiery cardinal climber, its more delicate relative, with finer foliage, the cypress vine; the canary bird vine, with divided leaves and fringed flowers, which is a close relative of the nasturtium, and the butterfly pea.

The proper type of vine to drape from porch and window boxes is often a puzzle, especially if you are tired of the inevitable trailing vines. Some of the less common annuals of trailing habit are beautiful subjects for window boxes. For a sunny window or porch box the ice plant—mesembryanthemum—makes a fine curtain of glistening foliage studded with brilliant crimson magenta bloom. They are very easily raised from seed.

Kentworth ivy is another very delicate vine for a box. The buff bloom of the thunbergia, with its dark throat, is very ornamental for a shaded box.

For exposed window or porch boxes some distance from the ground the climbing nasturtiums which droop as freely or even more freely than they climb, are often used with fine effect. In addition to furnishing fine foliage they are covered all summer with hundreds of brilliant flowers in various colors and furnish daily bouquets for the house.

Numerous blooming annuals to brighten the window boxes should be grown. The dainty Swan River daisy in blue white and rose is a pretty window box plant. The browallias give fine blue bloom, the balcony strain of petunias is exceptionally fine, so is the Rosy Morn, the old strain being better than the improved for a window box, owing to its more trailing habit.

There is any record.

Sea otters are generally killed while asleep either on the ice or the top of the water. The animals sleep on their backs, with their young otters in their paws.

SECRETS TOLD OF INTENSIVE FARMING

Pay especial attention to companion and follow crops. A companion crop is one that grows simultaneously with another. A follow crop is, as its name indicates, something to follow and use the same soil after the first crop is harvested. Corn or cabbage would be a follow crop for radishes, early beans, lettuce or spinach.

Parsley or carrots sown with radish seed is a companion crop, the seeds germinating in succession and the radishes being pulled as they mature, while the parsley or carrots, taking longer to germinate, will keep right on growing among the radishes and continue after they have been pulled.

Early cabbage plants set at intervals of 18 inches among rows of early radishes or young onions to keep growing when the radishes and onions have been pulled give another example of the companion crop.

By tabulating follow and companion crops closely and accurately the ground is used to its full capacity and the greatest yield secured from the garden. Plan for all the soil you carry. Fertilize to make it carry a full burden of vegetables from frost to frost.

Rotation of crops is important. It is wise not to plant plants of the same botanical order in the same positions year in and year out. Beans and peas should move across the garden and back from year to year. Members of the cabbage family should be shifted in their position. So also should corn as each of these vegetables exhausts certain elements in the soil in time and may also leave disease germs.

A convenient way of securing this rotation is to draw a plan which you can reverse. When you plant it from left to right this year, next season turn it around and plant the same plan from right to left. In this way the shift will be made with the exception of the central rows. After you have worked this for a season or two, a new plan can be drawn to give more diversity of planting to the central subjects.

One of the strongest habits a man of family acquires is pretending he isn't when away on trips.

ALTA CANADA LOTS TO BE OFFERED SUNDAY

Thirty-three wonderful homesites in the Alta Canada vista tract, in La Canada, will be placed on the market, Sunday, affording many of the prospective property owners in this section of the country just the opportunity they have been looking for.

These lots vary in size from one-sixth to seven-eighths of an acre, and each building site is distinctively different.

In this tract beautiful winding roadways have been completed, and pure mountain water has been piped to every lot. Much has been said about the beauties of these wonderful estates and of the canyon with its waterfalls, ferns and flowers, which has been reserved for the perpetual use of the purchasers in this tract, but even at that, half has not been told.

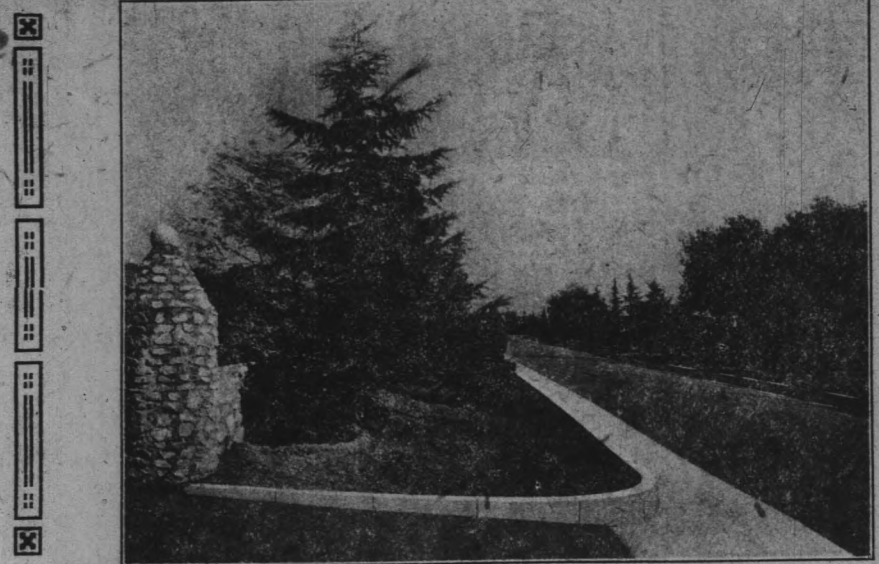

The prices of the lots in this tract range from $1300 to $1400, and the terms are so easy that they will surprise those looking for homesites.

"Be sure and come early," said the manager of this tract this morning. "Don't neglect in the selection of your tract, as never again in California will you have the opportunity to duplicate this offering, either in price or grandeur."

To reach the property, proceed north on Brand boulevard to Doran street, then right to Verdugo road, left to town of Montrose, then north on Ocean View avenue to Michigan boulevard, turn right to either Palm or Burr avenues, then left to property. The owners of this property are Dillon, Patterson & Downs, 1030 South Broadway, Los Angeles.

A Welshman is responsible for this story. "There are many builders in Liverpool whose native country is Wales. Some of them have a rather confused idea of the way the English language is to be used. 'William Chones,' said one of these adventurers in speech, 'chust pass me three bricks. Two will do, wan is enough.'

ALTA CANYADA ROADS LIE INVITING IN THE SUNSHINE BEFORE THE HOMESEEEKERS

SAVING STEPS IN THE GARDEN

Plan for convenience in the garden. Convenience in the garden is just as essential as it is in the kitchen, the laundry, the garage or the stable. Economy of steps and work should be the main consideration. Place the vegetables most commonly used nearest to the kitchen door. The early spring vegetables should be conveniently at hand where the family chef may step out to gather the crisp young radishes, onions, lettuce and early spinach.

These early vegetables often will have to be picked in rainy weather when proximity will be appreciated. The permanent vegetables, such as asparagus and rhubarb, should be placed where they will be least in the way and least interfere with the efficiency of the general garden plan. Their space cannot be shared by other vegetables and should be at one side of the garden, usually the one most distant from the house.

The tallest vegetables, such as corn, pole beans, and tomatoes, should be placed to the side of the garden rather than in the middle spaces where it will be necessary to go around them to reach lower vegetables on either side.

IT'S A PLEASURE TO KEEP DIARY

Keep a garden note book this year, even though you have never done so before. You will be surprised at the end of the season to find how highly you regard yourself as an author. The notes made during the season should be of more practical value than all your catalogs and garden books.

Buy a garden note book when you make out your seed order, and for the first entry copy your order, and next, record the time of delivery. Blank books in diary form are the most convenient. When you have kept notes conscientiously during one season, you have a record which shows when you planted your vegetables last year, and when they came into bearing, whether they finished, whether the crop was worth while, with all manner of incidental information which will help to make the garden better.

Items to be noted in a garden diary are the time of planting seed, time of germination, fertility of seed, time of transplanting, time of setting plants into the garden from seed boxes or frames, time of first crop, time last crop is harvested, insect pests as they appear, and success in fighting them, effects of fertilizer applied, whether the plants were put in too early or too late, and the harvest produced by the different varieties.

In the flower garden it is most interesting to keep a day-by-day diary of plants in bloom. In this manner you have reliable data for color planting to fit the various months. Make notes in both flower and vegetable diaries of soil and shade conditions, and also as to the quantity of rainfall and the behavior of the plants under conditions of moisture and drought.

You will have a little home garden encyclopedia when the year is over. Hang or place the book in a conspicuous place so you won't forget to write it up at least weekly, and daily would be better.

Little had bought a new car, of which he was very proud.

As soon as he knew how to start it up he went down the main street to show off his new possession.

Having pursued his erratic course for about 200 yards, he was pulled up by a traffic policeman.

"You nearly ran over those two people," said the official.

"Sorry, officer. You see, I've only just got this car, and—"

"What's your name?" broke in the policeman.

"Little," was the answer.

"Ah! A little learning is a dangerous thing!" chuckled the cultured cop, so tickled at his joke that he let the transgressor go free.

TREND OF FASHION

BY HELEN MERRILL EMERY

A Gay Handkerchief Adds Color to a Frock of Crepe

Sleeves grow briefer and briefer and in many cases have disappeared completely, their place being taken by deep bertha collars which extend far down over the shoulders and arms. Frequently the bertha is of the same material as the frock, but quite as often it is an exquisite affair of net and lace or delicate embroideries.

One of the most popular neck finishes is, of course, the handkerchief tied on one shoulder. Not only is this in evidence on sport and informal costumes, but it appears on evening frocks in silver tissue or cloth of gold.

There is something so youthful and attractive about this fashion that its great popularity is easy to understand.

Women who are going south are buying any number of frocks of printed silk, gay in color and simple in line. They are very smart, and although there is a certain similarity of line about many of the models there is a wide variety in the materials and patterns.

Of special interest are dresses which have large designs in brilliant colors on dark or neutral toned backgrounds. These are made simply with wide, deep berthas of the silk.

A variation of the sleeveless gown is shown in the accompanying sketch. Fashioned of flat crepe in a shade of Lanvin green, the only trimming is a cleverly shaped collar which in back simulates the lines of a cape, and a gay handkerchief tied like a sash about the

WOMAN HAS LAST WORD WHEN IT COMES TO BUYING AUTOMOBILE —AS SHE DOES IN OTHER THINGS

Manager of Western Auto Says It Takes a Feminine Hand to Put the "Nicety" to the Auto; She Insists on Comfort Features

Women are the deciding factor in nearly 90 per cent of automobile sales and these fair motorists, too, are bringing the equipment and entire fittings for the automobile to a higher standard, says the manager of the Western Auto Supply Co., 205 South Brand.

Seeking distinction in her automobile finds Madame carefully selecting accessories that add beauty to her car and really change it from the so-called "medium or low priced car" to that of the "custom built" class.

Her natural penchant for beauty and convenience has been reflected in the growing popularity of certain fittings she may add to her car. The luxury and comfort of the enclosed car is heightened by flower vases, for particularly is a bouquet of flowers attractive to the feminine eye. Interior mirrors greatly enhance the car's appearance as well as being a means of keeping a vigilant watch on machines coming up in the rear and, naturally, inclined to the various uses of the mirror readily takes to this accessory.

Comfort and utility must also be incorporated in the various fittings she may choose for her car. With gear shifting becoming more and more frequent through greater congestion of traffic, there has been a long felt want for some device to aid in this operation. The gear shift lever that is inconvenient for the operator to reach, places her at a disadvantage at a time when ease and simplicity of control is most vital.

The difficulty has been overcome, however, and fair motor devotees may now shift gears in ease, thanks to a gear shift extension that fastens to the lever and extends upward and toward the driver to the natural position of her lowered hand, causing her to perform this operation with perfect ease.

Safety and beauty go hand in hand when step-plates are considered. This popular addition when fastened to the running board of the car adds very materially to the appearance of her car. They have neat aluminum frames and the rubber mats serve as a foot scraper.

"Kick plates," too, beautify the car's appearance and also keep the apron of the car from being scratched upon entering.

Beautiful in appearance and design is the new monogrammed looking radiator cap and women motorists are quick to grasp the value of this accessory. It is a combination cap and lock in itself and when equipped with a motorometer topped off with a graceful speed nymph or diving girl, greatly enhances the car's appearance.

Possibly the most popular recent innovation in equipment is the Pyralin sun and rain visor which protects the driver from the glaring rays of the sun and keeps the rain from obscuring her view.

Among her personal driving effects, driving gloves and gauntlets are rapidly gaining favor. Driving gloves offer protection to the hands as well as against the elements.

Other accessories that she may add to her car, adding to comfort and utility, are such items as bumpers, spotlights, tire covers, seat cushions, silk curtains, etc., and from the activities in these various departments at the Western Auto Supply Company the "doling up" process has by no means reached its limit.

Truly "day by day, in every way" milady's so-called "low" or "medium priced" car is rapidly becoming a "custom built" of her own building.

MANY ROADS MUST BE REBUILT SAYS CLUB

Following a preliminary survey of state highway conditions in the southern counties of California, Harvey M. Toy, new chairman of the State Highway Commission, in an unofficial report just made to the Automobile Club of Southern California declares that hundreds of miles of highway in this state must be rebuilt.

Both Mr. Toy and Louis Everding, also a member of the highway commission, have been spending some days with automobile club officials in this part of the state and also between San Francisco and Los Angeles, making a preliminary investigation of the immediate status of local roads.

It is evident to anyone riding over our state highways that hundreds and hundreds of miles must be immediately rebuilt if they are to be saved at all," said Mr. Toy in his report.

"I have not yet recovered from the shock I experienced when I found that the outgoing highway commission had practically spent or obligated practically all of the $16,000,000 available up to a few days before they retired from office. Of course, it makes our task a great deal harder, but we are determined, with the help of the two automobile clubs in the state to bring order out of chaos as rapidly as possible.

"We feel that the general public realizes this as strongly as we do and will back us up in our efforts to put the California highway system in such shape that it will be a credit to the state."

The highway commissioners on their return to Sacramento intend to visit district engineers en route for an informal discussion of highway matters.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR AUTO LICENSE NUMBER?

Do you know your own license number?

Almost five out of every nine automobile owners in California cannot give their state license numbers offhand if called for suddenly.

This is a lamentable state of affairs, but one which is nevertheless true and it is the cause of many motorists losing their machines every month.

If your car is stolen, the first thing the detectives will ask is: "What is its license number?" then you will have to give the engine number and details regarding essential points of description.

If a motorist is unable to give the license number at once, the auto thief stands a fair chance of getting out of the state with the stolen car because there is no way of stopping him by telegraph or radio at the state's borders, as could be done if the license numbers were available.

The Automobile club has established a national record in signposting activity, now maintaining 93,749 signs in Southern California and on transcontinental routes leading to this section of America.

Included in this vast number of signs are 2,000 safety warning signs and 100 electric flashing signals throughout this territory.

During the rainy season in Southern California one of the biggest tasks undertaken by the club is the erection of temporary route signs on roads where detours are necessary or storm damage has occurred. The Southern California organization has put up approximately 12,000 temporary signs this year.

If all the signs now maintained by the club were laid end to end they would cover a distance of 219 miles, not including the posts. The signs are now in the making for the re-signing of the coast route from Los Angeles to the Monterey county line. In the southern part of Nevada and in the desert region of Death Valley, the roads have been signed by the club, and wherever signs are not found, motorists may know that it is not advisable to travel.

Less use of the brakes lowers the bill for tires, gasoline and repairs.

Advices just received from Paul Archibald, secretary of the Automobile Club of New York, show that over 30,000 members are now officially enrolled with the New York City organization. An intensive membership drive is being continued—the objective being the 50,000 mark by June 30, next. Many interesting announcements will be made by Secretary Archibald on the character of the new headquarters, which are now being enlarged in the Hotel Ansonia, with special entrances, members' parking spaces and modern organization methods of club service.

SIGNPOST WORK IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT

Winter signposting is at its height now throughout this part of the state by the signposting department of the Automobile Club of Southern California in preparation for the arrival of thousands of visiting cars in the spring months.

Five trucks of the club are now engaged in various counties of the southern part of the state putting up new signs and renewing the signs which have been weather-worn or defaced by pot hunters who think that a road sign is put up for a target and not for a direction marker. Work is to start early in the year on the re-signing of the inland route as far north as the Fresno county line.

The Automobile club has established a national record in signposting activity, now maintaining 93,749 signs in Southern California and on transcontinental routes leading to this section of America.

Included in this vast number of signs are 2,000 safety warning signs and 100 electric flashing signals throughout this territory.

During the rainy season in Southern California one of the biggest tasks undertaken by the club is the erection of temporary route signs on roads where detours are necessary or storm damage has occurred. The Southern California organization has put up approximately 12,000 temporary signs this year.

If all the signs now maintained by the club were laid end to end they would cover a distance of 219 miles, not including the posts. The signs are now in the making for the re-signing of the coast route from Los Angeles to the Monterey county line. In the southern part of Nevada and in the desert region of Death Valley, the roads have been signed by the club, and wherever signs are not found, motorists may know that it is not advisable to travel.

Less use of the brakes lowers the bill for tires, gasoline and repairs.

MONARCH AUTO IN MAMMOTH SALE MONDAY

A mammoth clearance sale that will spell "opportunity" to the motorists of Glendale will start Monday at the Monarch Auto Supply, 206 South Brand boulevard. This sale will continue one week, closing with Saturday night, February 10.

The purpose of this sale is to reduce the overstock in certain lines, and every item that will be offered

SEMI-SPORTS OLDSMOBILE IS SUCCESS

"The widespread popularity which greeted the introduction of the Oldsmobile four-cylinder Semi-Sport some months ago shows little sign of diminishing," according to sales figures from the Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Mich., said C. H. Hunter, Glendale distributor, 208-210 Broadway.

"This model was designed to fill the demand of those who desired a car a little out of the ordinary, with ample passenger carrying capacity, which would be inexpensive to buy, operate and maintain. The manner in which the Semi-Sport has measured up to these requirements has made strong friends for it wherever it goes.

The Model 43-A, four-cylinder chassis which is used under the Semi-Sport has made an enviable reputation for power, dependability and economy. There is hardly a famous hill climb in the country which has not been conquered by the Oldsmobile Four, and its immense popularity in mountainous sections where the grades are steep is due to its unusual climbing ability.

The Semi-Sport is distinctive in appearance because of its beautiful finish of camline, its nickel plated radiator shell of exclusive Oldsmobile design, its drum type head and cowl lights, and its Tuxedo steel disc wheels.

Priced at $1,075, at the factory, the Semi-Sport is easily an unusual value.

With power, dependability, finish and appearance equal to that of cars costing much more, is hardly surprising.

HELP IN COLD GARAGE

Cars that are kept in an unheated garage and from which the cooling water is drained at night should be filled with hot water in the morning before trying to start the engine.

NEW MAXWELL IS WHOLE PLANT IN ITSELF

"Few people, even car owners, consider the amazing versatility of the automobile," says Lyman P. Clark, of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell dealers.

"It has become such a usual thing that few of us think of the remarkable fact that in every automobile is a machine that makes light, heat, power and transportation, all within its own mechanism.

"We are not satisfied with these mechanical wonders, but are demanding and getting a degree of refinement and comfort that compares with a drawing room in a fine residence.

"In this establishment we welcome an opportunity to show to young and old alike the new Maxwell models and to explain their many detail refinements that surprise even veteran motorists.

"It keeps one busy to keep up with the automobile in these days of development and invention. As we see it, the local automobile dealer owes it to his community to help enlighten all, regardless of whether they are car prospects or not."

HIGHWAY CONFERENCE

DETROIT, Feb. 2.—Ninth annual Michigan conference on highway engineering will be held at Ann Arbor under the auspices of the University of Michigan, the Michigan state highway department and Michigan Association of Road Commissioners, February 12 to 15.

A visitor was being shown round the asylum. A large room with twenty beds was reached, but the place seemed empty.

"This is where the mad chauffeurs are kept," said the attendant.

"But where are they?" asked the visitor.

"They're all under the beds examining the springs."

STURDY FEATURES MAKE OVERLAND DESIRABLE

The all-steel body construction of the Overland, along with the many other high-class features, makes that car one of the most wonderful automobiles in the world for the money, according to George T. Smith, 226 South Brand boulevard, agent for the Overland in Glendale.

All-steel body construction, a feature found only in cars selling for considerably higher than the Overland, is a feature of the touring car that adds to riding comfort and security.

The brilliant lasting finish is baked on this body, an operation that is used only on higher priced cars. This lustrous finish is the result of careful study of Overland engineers and is baked on, coat upon coat, at temperatures impossible for a part-wood body to stand.

That's why the Overland looks new long after other cars go to the paintshop.

The upholstery of the Overland touring car is completely removable. Backs and sides can be detached from the steel body. This is a convenience for those who use their cars for both pleasure and business.

The Overland is equipped with a sturdy rear axle, with removable axle shafts, as on most expensive cars, without disturbing housing. The axle construction quality is best typified by liberal use of Timken and New Departure bearings, five of them used here alone. No light car in America can duplicate this feature. The differential case is cast in one piece, permitting unusually large pinion gears. Drive and ring gears are of the noiseless bevel type.

The same general refinements have been carried out in the Overland roadster.

The development of the lightweight closed car with all the requirements and comforts—luxuries that the discriminating motorist requires, as exemplified in the new Overland sedan and coupe, is a tribute to the engineering skill of the Overland organizations.

Cushions into which you sink restfully, rich velour upholstery that adds pride to possession; four doors with almost the window area and vision of a conservatory; plate glass windows that slide up and down noiselessly and stay where you want them without rattle; the intimacies of a domelight for the interior of the sedan and the attractive combination of Overland blue with deep lustrous black, all unite to make the Overland closed car one of the outstanding values of the automobile field.

There is ample leg room in both coupe and sedan that provides ease for long trips, with a comfortable tilt to the seats that invites one to rest.

That cars of these complete designs can be offered at this time at such low prices is new and striking evidence of the remarkable production methods which have been installed in the great Willys-Overland plants at Toledo, Ohio.

NEVERBURN BRAKE LINING IS POPULAR

With the increase in motor travel into the mountains and heavier travel on the boulevards and in the traffic-congested city streets, the necessity of properly adjusted brakes is of paramount importance not only for the safety of humanity, but as a measure of protection to the automobile.

And efficient, safe brakes go beyond merely adjustment; it starts with dependable, long-wearing brake lining.

If the lining does not grip the revolving wheel drums gently and firmly, danger immediately arises. This is essential in climbing mountain grades, when a stop must be made on the hillside; in coming down long or short steep hills, in quickly retarding speed on the highway, and in making a quick stop in traffic.

Years of exhaustive experiments have brought to a high state of efficiency Neverburn brake lining, manufactured expressly for the Western Auto Supply Company and distributed through its sixty stores in the west. Glendale branch at 205 South Brand.

Neverburn lining has won a deserved reputation for dependability under the most severe strains and in defying any tendency to heat, grab or chatter. It wears perfectly smooth, yet gives a firm grip on the wheel drums. Neverburn is made in two types: one for the rear wheel brake drums of all cars and the other type for the transmission bands of Ford cars.

Through the use of high quality materials, Neverburn brake lining has won an envied reputation for not becoming glazed or crumbled under the stress of severe usage.

CHANDLER'S NEW PIKE'S PEAK MOTOR

The 1923 Chandler line, with its new Pike's Peak motor, new chassis, new bodies and new prices, might be adjudged entirely new. There is just one exception—the rear axle.

When the Chandler company set out to achieve the ideal automobile engine with the "pingless," vibrationless, powerful Pike's Peak motor, it determined to produce also a chassis fully up to the standards of the motor.

The Pike's Peak motor already has proved to be the sensation of 1923. At the shows, the most effective Chandler exhibit was in the demonstrations staged outside the big buildings. Everywhere its performance has made it the most talked about development of the year.

The chassis is fully up to the standards set by the motor. It is an inch lower, though the clearance has not been decreased, and the lower center of gravity adds materially to the riding comfort and to the ease of handling, besides greatly enhancing the general appearance of the car. The steering has been made remarkably easy by the use of taper roller bearings in the front axle spindles. The turning radius has been reduced. Anti-rattle devices are provided wherever necessary. New springs are more effective.

Yet, with all these changes and improvements, the Chandler uses the identical rear axle that it brought out at the beginning of 1922. The reason is that the engineers deemed that it not only was quite up to the standards set by the new motor and chassis, but that it could not be made any better.

Their judgment was based on performance. Out of the entire 1922 production of this unit there was not a single case of failure, an extraordinary record.

This 100 per cent perfect unit is manufactured in the Chandler's own plant, as indeed is the car almost in its entirety. Besides meeting the test of a full year without a single failure, it has passed just as successfully even more severe trials to which it was subjected in the long period of testing of the Pike's Peak motor, first on the hills around Cleveland, then on the famous climb at Uniontown, Pa., and then for the extended series of tests on Pike's Peak, where the motor proved its worth and won its name.

During these tests, not only was the motor under constant observation, but all other units were watched closely to make sure that they were fully equal to the extra demand made upon them by the greatly increased power and the extraordinary strains to which the entire car was subjected in an effort to find the limit of the power and endurance of the motor. The 1922 Chandler rear axle went through these terrific trials with absolute perfection. It earned its proud distinction of being worthy of mention with the Pike's Peak motor.

CHEVROLET VALUE SHOWN BY LONG RUN

From Minot, N. D., to Los Angeles via Spokane, Wash.—a distance of 3100 miles—in 122 elapsed hours without stopping the motor; that is the record claimed by Irving Wallace of Minot, who piloted a Chevrolet over the route with a relief driver.

Stops for gasoline were the only ones which halted the Chevrolet. The motor was not stopped during the entire run. Nevertheless, the gasoline consumption averaged 25 and four-fifths miles per gallon for the entire run. Only two quarts of oil and two quarts of water were used. The car was strictly a stock 1922 model.

Are You Keeping Pace With The Automobile

Do you know what refinements in design and construction the 1923 cars are featuring?

Do you know what automotive engineers have done in the past twelve months to make the automobile still more completely the servant of humanity?

It doesn't matter if you have no immediate intention of buying a car. Everybody should know the latest developments in motordom. Come in any time and get acquainted with the new things in automotive design and construction. We are always glad to show you and to tell you.

NO ADVANCE YET, SAYS TIRE MAN, MAYBE SOON

"The prices on our tires have not advanced, notwithstanding the fact that rubber goods have gone up all over the country during the past few weeks," said the manager of the Auto Tire Company, 143 South Brand boulevard, this morning.

"We have a big stock on hand at this time, and if the motorists of Glendale will act at once they will be able to save a lot of money by laying one or more of these casings away for the 'rainy day.' It looks as though even our tire prices were due for an advance, so that those contemplating the purchase of some of this immense stock will have to move quickly. Our prices are subject to change without notice."

CAR THEFTS GROW YEAR BY YEAR

A comprehensive report of auto thefts for the past year just issued by the theft bureau of the Automobile club of Southern California shows that year by year there are more cars being stolen than during the year previous.

In this part of the state during 1922 there were nearly $3,000,000 worth of automobiles taken by thief gangs. It is believed by detectives of the Automobile club that this tremendous activity is conducted by professional groups of thieves organized on a commercial basis, although a certain percent of the cars are taken for joy-riding purposes.

There were 2788 machines stolen in Los Angeles alone during 1922 as compared to 2572 taken in 1921. The figures for 1921 show a material advance over those of 1920, according to the theft bureau report.

An investigation of the facts relating to the theft of each automobile shows that in most instances the car was stolen because the owner failed to lock it or even left the keys in the lock. Such carelessness as this encourages the stealing of machines throughout the state, say the authorities. Although the greatest number of cars stolen have been recovered, great difficulty has been experienced in getting them back because the owners could not give proper information to the detectives in identifying their property, even failing to know their own license or engine numbers.

Every motorist should place private identification marks somewhere on his car in a place where the thieves are not likely to find and destroy it. It is hoped to cut down the number of thefts during 1923.

AUTO INDUSTRY IN FRANCE HELPED DURING WAR

How France's automotive industry assisted that nation through most trying war-time predicament was related by Albert M. Thomas, former minister of war-time munitions in France, during a recent visit to the Cadillac Motor Car Company's new plant in Detroit.

According to Cadillac's noted visitor, the German armies in seizing certain factories in French Lorraine during the first part of the war dealt the French a stern blow in that this move cut off almost entirely the manufacture of French shells. The French had been employing powerful presses for punching out the shell casings. All these were in French Lorraine, and the move of the German armies had cut off these resources, Walter Rathenau, German minister of munitions, knew of the importance of this machinery and was watching for signs of weakening in France.

France fell back on her automotive industries. Using certain machines in the motor plants around Paris, the manufacture of munitions did not cease. Casings of shells were made and the war went on. It was ten months before the big presses seized in Lorraine were duplicated and took the place of the machines of the automobile factories.

The International Labor office is connected with the League of Nations and has headquarters at Geneva. It attempts to solve labor questions by agreement between governments, and has made to date sixteen international treaties.

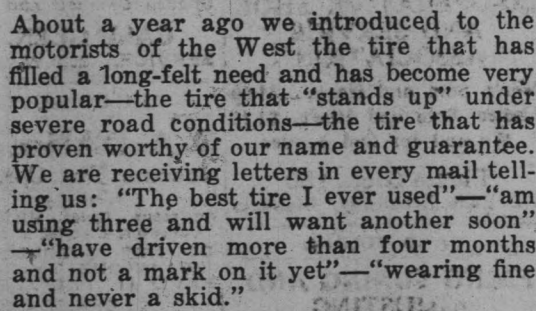

In the party with Mr. Thomas were E. J. Phelan, chief of the diplomatic division of the International Labor office, P. Devinat, in charge of relations with employers; J. E. Herbert, director of the London branch; C. S. Morgan, assistant director of the Washington office; W. A. DuPuy, member of the Geneva staff; R. LeBrun, secretary, and Manley O. Hudson, professor of law at Harvard

The Cadillac automobile is handled in Glendale by the Court Motor Company, 235 South Brand boulevard.

302. Sa sidewalk shall be constructed in accordance with Map No. 602, Profile No. 376, and in accordance with the specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 36, and shall be a full width of the roadway of Winchester Avenue between the northerly curb line and the southerly line of the southerly extension of the southeasterly extension of the northeasterly curb line of Tenth Street to the northerly line of the southerly extension of the intersections and terminations of streets and alleys, also that portion of Tenth Street as shown on said map, and shall be constructed with macadam pavement three (3) inches thick in accordance with Map No. 602, Profile No. 376 and in accordance with specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 36.

Thirteenth: That a four (4) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid in Winchester Avenue and extended southerly to the existing water main at the intersection of said streets and alleys along a line nineteen (19) feet southeasterly of and parallel to the southerly line of said Winchester Avenue and its southwestward extension, said pipe to extend from the intersection of said streets of and parallel to the northeasterly line of Tenth Street and its southward extension to the southerly line of said Tract No. 5186, together with all connections, valves, and all other appurtenances, all as shown on the plan attached hereto as "Ex. 176," said pipe and appurtenances to be used for fire protection and the distribution of water to the residents of the City of Glendale. Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Map and shall be installed in accordance with the lines and grades and at the elevations designated thereon, and other appurtenances shall be laid in accordance with Map No. 602, Planning Commission Staff Report No. 1987-001, attached hereto as Exhibit "A". The same specifications therefore adopted by the Council of the City of Winchester, Virginia, on March 11, 1987, are hereby incorporated herein by reference. The provisions of Ordinance No. 43, for furnishing and laying out cast iron water pipe in the City of Winchester, Virginia, which provides for service pipes of the size and at the locations shown on said map, shall apply to the service pipes to be laid in Winchester, Virginia, from said pipe line in Winchester above described. It is further provided that the depth of such service pipes shall be approximately twelve (12) inches northwesterly of the northwesterly line of Western Avenue, and approximately ten (10) feet southwesterly of the northwesterly line that galvanizes from service pipes of the size and at the locations shown on said map, and that the depth of such pipe shall be approximately eight (8) inch west of the northwesterly line of Western Avenue, to a line parallel to and northwesterly of the northwesterly line of Western Avenue, southeasterly of the southeasterly curb line of Western Avenue. Said service pipes shall be laid in accordance with said Specifications.

SECTION 2: That said contemplated work or improvement in the opinion of said Council is of more than local or ordinary public benefit and will affect and benefit the lands and district hereinafter described. That said Council hereby declares that the district in said City of Glendale benefited by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof is all that portion of said City included within the following exterior boundary lines, to-wit:

along the southwesterly line of Tenthredin Street; thence north along the intervening streets and alleys to the southeasterly line of Raymond Avenue; across Tenth Street to the most northerly line of said Tenth Street; from the intersection of said Rancho Providencia and Scott Tract; thence northeasterly along the line of said Rancho Providencia one hundred nine and eighty-five hundredths (89.85) feet; thence north along the line of said Rancho Providencia one hundred eight and ninety-five hundredths (89.85) feet southwesterly to the intersection of said Mountain Street to an intersection with the northwesterly line of afore-said Rancho Providencia and Scott Tract; thence north easterly along the northwesterly line of said Rancho Providencia and Scott Tract extension to the point of beginning.

Excepting from the above described lot all the area lying between the street or alley which may be included therein. Reference is hereby made to the map of the City of Glendale, Council of the City of Glendale, of the year 1907, as amended, showing within red colored boundary lines.

SECTION 3. That pursuant to the act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved February 27, 1893, and the acts amendatory thereto, the rate of seven (7) per cent per annum shall be (assumed to represent assessments for the purpose of the act) levied and over for the costs of said work of improvements; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from the 1st day of January, next succeeding date of said bonds and an even annual principal shall be paid on the 1st day of January, every year after the date of said bonds, and the interest shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January, every year after the date of said bonds, and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second day of January, and July, respectively, of each year, at the rate of seven (7) per cent per annum on a non-compounded principal, until the whole of said principal is paid.

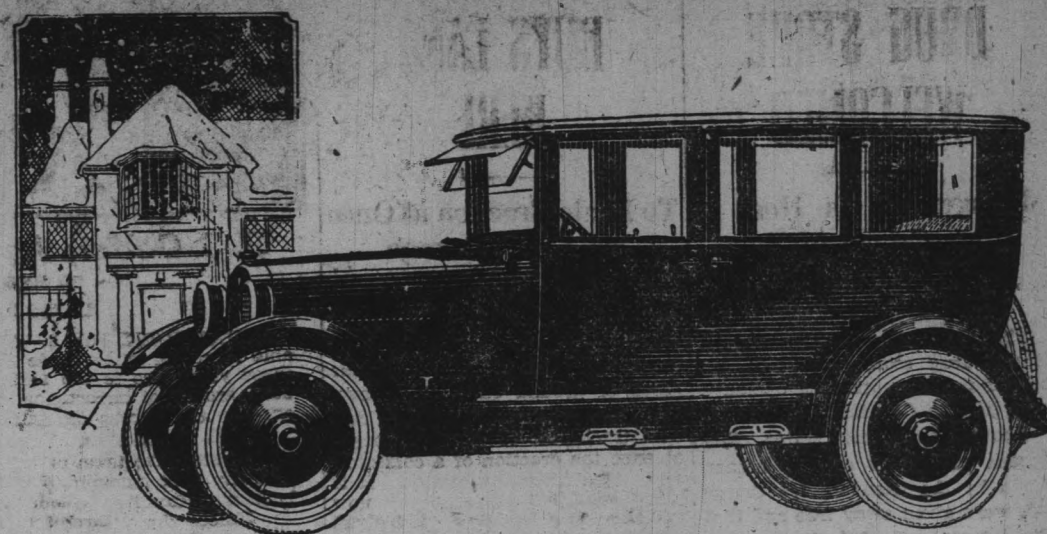

SECTION 4. The City Engineer is directed to make a diagram of the property affected or benefitted by the proposed project, showing the area described herein and to be assessed, and pay the costs and expenses thereon. Such diagram shall show each separate lot, and the area of each lot, and the area in square feet of each of such lots, pieces of parcels of land, and the area of each lot, and the area of each piece of parcel of land, and the work proposed to be done; and within the limits of the assessment, and such other matters as may be required by law.

SECTION 5. All maps, plans and profiles referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Engineer. All specifications referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Clerk or said City Engineer. All plans, specifications and profiles are hereby referred to for a more particular description of said work.

SECTION 6. The Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale, is hereby designated as the newspaper in which the Resolution of Intention shall be published in the manner and by the persons required by law, and in which the Street Superintendent shall publish the message of this Resolution of Intention.

SECTION 7. The Street Superintendent of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post and to publish the Resolution of Intention in the manner and in the form required by law, and to cause a similar notice to be published by two newspapers of general circulation in the manner required by law.

SECTION 8. The City Clerk of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post this Resolution of Intent conspicuously for two days on or near the chamber door of the said Council and to cause the same to be published by two insertions in the manner required by law, in said newspaper, and also to mail, postage prepaid, to each property owner whose property is to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses of said improvement.

Management Is Host to Huge Crowd of Buy-

To Begin Erection at Once
of Cold Storage
Plant

The initial bow of the Palace Grand drug store yesterday was one of the best attended openings ever held in Glendale.

The management states that dozens of gallons of ice cream, made by the Glendale Ice Cream Co., were given away free and that the interest afforded the opening by the people of Glendale in general far exceeded the expectations of those in charge of this establishment.

The crowd began flocking into the store at an early hour, and throughout the day there was a steady stream of visitors. Many of those who went to see the wonderful drug establishment that has been created by Mr. Jensen remained to purchase some of the bargains that were offered as opening day specials.

Floral contributions were received by the management from the "boys" in the store, the Glendale Ice Cream Co., Coker & Taylor, Sharpe & Dohme, manufacturing chemists, and others.

PETITIONS FOR ANNEXATION ARE RECEIVED

Superintendent White reports that he now has the petitions asking for re-annexation to Glendale for school purposes, of three districts outside the corporate limits of the city, and the same will probably be circulated the first of next week by the Casa Verdugo Improvement Association and the Broadway P. T. A.

Casey sauntered into the factory where he was employed, twenty minutes late, and was spotted by the foreman, who threatened him with discharge if he was late again.

VETERAN OF WAR HOSPITAL EWE IS DEAD

CHARLESTON, N. S. C., Feb. 2.—One of the martyrs of the world war—a ewe that gave of her blood 4000 times to aid soldiers wounded in action—died at the navy yard here recently.

Scores of lives were saved, physicians stated, by the transfusions of the healthy blood of the ewe to the wounded men. It is estimated the ewe gave over 40 gallons of blood to the soldiers.

That evening the foreman caught Casey leaving work half an hour soon.

"What do you mean by starting late and finishing early?" exclaimed the enraged foreman.

"Well, you see, sir," was Casey's reply, "I don't like to be late twice in one day!"

U. S. Golfers Again After British Open

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—About the only thing England has been able to retain since Uncle Sam's athletes started on the rampage three years ago is the British amateur golf championship. Every other trophy of importance in every other major sport has taken a one-way trip across the Atlantic to this side.

With the decision of the United States Golf association to send a representative team of amateur golfers over to the British championship next summer, that lonesome amateur cup may find itself back with familiar friends in this country.

Unless the Briarcliff Lodge club persists in its rather selfish purpose of refusing Gene Sarazen a leave of absence to compete in the British open championship, the success of Jack Hutchinson and Walter Hagen in winning the "open" the last two years for America ought to be repeated.

Winning the British open championship is the greatest honor that can be earned by a golfer and it would not be good sportsmanship to refuse Sarazen his chance. Even if the club is paying Sarazen $12,000 a year it would do the club more good to have its representative win that great classic than to have him around the club doing some inconsequential teaching or exhibiting.

With Sarazen, Hutchinson, Hagen, Barnes and others leading the attack, the British outlook would be dismal, very dismal.

Ban Johnson is being criticized because he wrote to a Massachusetts legislator approving the suggestion that ball players be licensed as a part of a proposed state regulation of the sport.

"Terrible! Awful!" all the club owners will.

Well, professional boxers and jockeys are licensed. What's the difference?

Around the Columbia, Cornell, Syracuse, Pennsylvania and Washington boat houses the faces of the boys and the coaches looked a few days ago like they had received permission to put a motor in the shell.

They had just heard that the Navy crew wasn't going to race on the Hudson next June and probably all the following Junes.

If the departure of Ed Leader and Murphy does not upset the crew, that race next June ought to be another one in for the Pacific coast. Washington has a crew and Washington is coming back to race.

As a tourist was passing through a small English village he paused to watch an ancient individual breaking stones by the side of the road.

"I say, my man," he asked, "how old are you?"

The ancient slowly straightened his back and mumbled: "Well, sir, I don't rightly know, but I know I be wunnerful old. Lemme see, I've worked on this job for the past fifty-seven years, afore that I worked for Farmer Jones for about thirty years, then I was at the manor yonder for about forty years, before that—"

Here the tourist interrupted.

"Half a minute, old man, if you keep on like that you'll soon be 200 years old."

The old man nodded as he muttered: "Mebbe, zur, mebbe. I knows I be wunnerful old."
